THREE MEN INDICTED.

Coughlin, Sullivan, and the Man Known as Woodruff.

CHARGED WITH CRONIN'S MURDER

Sullivan Said to Have Made a Confession to the Police—Clothes Found That Probably Belonged to Cronin

CHICAGO May 28.—Detective Daniel Coughlin, Patrick Sullivan, the ice man, and Frank J Black, alias Woodruff, were indicted by the grand jury this evening for the murder of Dr Cronin. This result was reached after an investigation which began at noon and lasted for seven hours, during which two dozen witnesses were examined and a mass of evidence was considered.

The three prisoners were included in one indictment, to which there were three counts one charging them with killing Dr Cronin with a blunt instrument, the second alleging the use of a sharp instrument and the third "instruments and means unknown."

No evidence was introduced to show a conspiracy, and Dr Cronin's private papers were not placed before the grand jury

The witnesses who were called were those whose stories have been told in the press.

State's Attorney Longnecker thought it advisable to tighten the coils into which the three prisoners had already been drawn and fasten them with indictments, possibly to prevent any attempt to secure the release of one or more of them on bail. The grand jury took only one vote after hearing the witnesses, and that was unanimous for the indictment of all three of the prisoners.

State's Attorney Longnecker said to-night that no mention of Clan na-Gael affairs had been made in the jury room The charge of conspiracy and Dr Cronin's papers will be taken up later, probably before another grand jury.

THE DAY'S DEVELOPMENTS.

Sullivan, the Ice Man, Said to Have Made a Full Confession.

CHICAGO May 28.—The Times, in a late edition this morning prints the statement that P O Sullivan has made a full confession and has given to the police the names of every one who is known to be implicated in the murder of Dr Cronin Sullivan was neatly trapped Day after day he has been subjected to a questioning by the officers, and day after day he has lied. The police pumped Sullivan Thursday. He contradicted himself frequently, then they gave him enough truth to show that they know more than he thought they did Next day Sullivan changed his tune and more contradictions followed. This lying continued until yesterday. Then he decided to tell the truth In the presence of Mayor Baldenweck, of Lakeview, and the officers, Sullivan revealed the whole plot, and the names of all those connected with the great crime. Mayor Baldenweck was seen this morning by a reporter, and was asked for a confirmation of the above statement. The mayor declared that it was not true but nevertheless much credence is given to the story, as the authorities have not scrupled heretofore to deny the actual facts for fear the case might be prejudiced.

The coroner's jury went to Lakeview this morning and inspected the blood stained cottage. They returned this afternoon and will take evidence.

A DENIAL.

Iosman Sullivan and police officials declare that the statement published this morning to the effect that he had made a confession, laying bare the entire details of the plot for the murder of Dr Cronin, is false An afternoon paper professes to have information to the effect that nothing like a confessing confession was secured from him. An admission, it is said, was obtained that one of the men who hired the Carlson cottage had sought work from him, and been frequently about his place, that he told the young man of the terms of his contract with Cronin, and that the young man could have secured one of his cards if he had so desired

It will be remembered that one of Sullivan's cards was used to lure Dr Cronin from his home

The coroner's jury, after viewing the blood stained cottage at Lakeview, and the place where the body was found, adjourned the inquest till to morrow

PROBABLY CRONIN'S CLOTHES

Mrs Hamburgher, a widow living at 1582 Diversey street, has turned over to the police articles of clothing which may have belonged to Dr Cronin. Her two boys aged 9 and 11, while playing in the woods Sunday, about a mile from where Cronin's body was found, found in the bushes a woolen undershirt, a pair of drawers and a vest. Nothing was found in the pockets of the vest to aid in identification, and from the fact that the clothing was scattered about, it is supposed that it had previously been overhauled The boys did not tell their mother of the discovery until that night. On hearing it she sent them back to get the clothing, and no idea the police Captain Schaack and men it is claimed, cautioned her and the boys not to say a word about the find to anyone, and it only leaked out by accident. A reporter called on Mrs. Hamburgher to-night, but she said she has been instructed not to talk. The police officials were equally mute

AN IMPROBABLE STORY

The Daily News has the following 'Detective Robert Brace who has been conducting a private agency in this city, walked into Lieutenant Ellison's office this morning and said that several months ago Alderman McCormick offered him $1100 to kill Dr Cronin, Brace, who has just returned from a three months stay in Texas, says McCormick paid him $100 in advance and agreed to pay the remaining $1000 when the deed was done. Brace declares that McCormick told him to feign sickness in his office, and then send for Dr Cronin and kill him Brace says he took the $100 and spent it for liquor, and never made a move toward carrying out the contract Brace bears a rather unsavory character and the police do not place all the reliance in the world in his story He has been in numerous scrapes in this city"

MORE WARRANTS ISSUED.

Eight Suspects Being Shadowed by Detectives—Coughlin Will Not "Squeal."

CHICAGO May 28.—The two warrants for Daniel Coughlin and Patrick O Sullivan are not the only ones that have been issued in the case Eight other warrants were placed in the hands of detectives to-day and taken to different parts of the city and Lakeview The detectives immediately began to shadow eight different suspects. The warrants are not intended for use save in such emergency as would arise from an attempt of any of the men to leave the city

The mayor and chief of police are greatly incensed at the way the information gathered in the investigation has been allowed to leak out. The mayor learned to-day that Coughlin, the saloon keeper with whom Cronin resided, has been paying regular visits to a newspaper office Coughlin has been taken into the almost full confidence of the police, who relied on his discretion, owing to his great and constant clamor for avenging his friend's death.

Nobody is any longer discussing the possibility of the prisoner Coughlin "squealing" The ex detective has plainly defined his platform. Upon being urged to tell all he knew, he replied in these words "I am innocent and know nothing but if I were guilty and did know anything, I would die before I would tell it."

THE ICE MAN IN A HOT CORNER.

It Has Been Shown That He Was Intimate With the Murderers.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Before the grand jury to-day the connection of the ice man Sullivan with the Cronin mystery was made almost absolute Old man Carlson was one of the cottage testified that the man who called himself Frank Williams, and rented the cottage went over to see Sullivan the ice man and talked familiarly with him As the 20th of April approached and rent day was coming near, Carlson thought it strange the tenant did not occupy the premises He stepped over to Sullivan spoke of the tenant's queer conduct and remarked that he felt somewhat anxious about the rent Sullivan told him Williams was all right and would pay Sullivan in his previous statements to the police denied knowing Williams

THE LAND LEAGUE

An Earnest Hope Expressed That Justice Will Overtake Cronin's Murderer

NEW YORK May 28.—At the regular meeting of the municipal council of the Irish National League to-night, the following was adopted

Resolved, That we most emphatically condemn the brutal murder of Dr Cronin We repudiate calumnies that seek in any way to involve the Irish league, its friends or its policy, as in the slightest degree connected with the assassination Deploring this great crime, we express an earnest hope that swift justice will overtake all those responsible for his death.

The Nat Goodwin Gambling Suit.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—The attachment suit brought by J E Shain to recover $3000 on two promissory notes executed by the comedian, Nat Good, for money lost at play with Edmund Morris, has been removed from the superior to the Federal courts for trial. Goodwin, in his answer, denies the charges that Morris cheated him.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure sick headache.

CLEVELAND'S SPEECH.

Comment of the New York "Sun," "Tribune" and "World."

NEW YORK, May 28.—Referring editorially to the banquet given to Grover Cleveland last night by the Young Men's Democratic Club, the Sun yesterday morning said 'Loyally, and for the sake of the permanent good of the democratic party, we wish that 350 000 democrats instead of only 350 could meet Mr Cleveland at the Fifth Avenue to-night and study him during the dinner and listen to whatever remarks he may have prepared for the occasion. The more conspicuously and frequently he appears at the gatherings and in the councils of the party the less danger there is of forgetting the great lesson of 1888. We hope that his private engagements will permit him often, in the years to come, to meet the democracy face to face, and remind it by his presence why the golden opportunity of 1888 turned to dead leaves last November'

The Tribune to-day says editorially "Mr Cleveland is no longer a dark horse, and the Tribune does not need to repeat the assurance of pleasure in seeing him so heavily backed as the favorite. 'He is our democratic candidate for the nomination in 1892, and we don't care who knows it' is the voice of those at the banquet.'

The World editorially says 'The speech made by ex President Cleveland at the dinner given in his honor last night, by the young men's democratic club, was dignified in style, earnest in tone and often felicitous in phraseology, but it was the speech of a conscious candidate rather than that of a positive and progressive party leader"

DISTURBANCE BY DRUNKEN WAITERS.

NEW YORK, May 28.—It is probable that no more public dinners will be held at the Fifth Avenue hotel on account of the disturbance caused by the drunken waiters attending the Cleveland banquet last night.

GATHERING FOR RESISTANCE.

Serious Trouble Threatened by the Striking Miners in Illinois.

BRAIDWOOD, Ill., May 28.—Eight companies of the Fourth regiment Illinois National Guard, pitched their tents on the Chicago, Wilmington & Vermillion coal lands at "J" shaft this morning They are now scouting the Italian quarters, and twenty five miners have been arrested On their persons were found knives and revolvers. It is asserted that the Italians are rallying at Godley, Coal City, Clark City, Gardners and Brakeville for an attack. Serious trouble is expected to-night.

ARRESTED BY THE MILITIA.

Everything was quiet until 10 o'clock this morning, when a body of the strikers moved in the direction of the place where the militia were encamped. A company of the militia was deployed with fixed bayonets and surrounded the strikers, making them prisoners without any resistance. While they were held under cover of the guns of the military the sheriff and posse disarmed the strikers, who were found to be pretty thoroughly provided with knives and pistols.

Several of the prisoners were identified as among those who took part in the rioting yesterday These are held under guard, and will be sent to Joliet this afternoon.

It is reported that the strikers are gathering at the mines in various parts of the country, with a view to a combined attack on the militia.

Serious troubles are expected to-night.

RIGHT OF DOWER.

The Edmunds Act Decided to Apply Only to Utah.

LARAMIE, Wyo., May 28.—Judge Corn has rendered an important decision in the district court at Rawlins holding that the Edmunds act regarding right of dower does not apply in any territory except Utah.

Mrs. Amanda W France sued for a dower in all the realty now in the hands of the assignees which formerly belonged to her late husband, Jas. France. The action was brought under the section of the Edmunds act which provides that a widow shall be endowed of a third part of all lands of which her husband came into possession at any time during their marriage, unless she shall have lawfully released her right thereto The legislature of 1876 abolished the right of dower in Wyoming which before that time existed under the common law.

It was claimed by the attorneys for Mrs. France that the Edmunds act revived this right in all territories and rendered null any repealing statute.

The defendants held that the particular section of the act quoted above applied to Utah alone, and that were sustained by the court.

A long decision was rendered, in which the construction of the act was carefully analyzed by Judge Corn This is the first time that a legal decision on the question has ever been rendered.

THE VACANT JUSTICESHIP.

Speculation as to the Man Whom Harrison Will Appoint to the Place.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28.—Some speculation is being done here as to whether President Harrison will appoint Attorney General Miller to the United States supreme bench to fill the place made vacant by the death of Stanley Matthews, or will select for the honor his friend and fellow citizen of W W Dudley Judge Woods, of the United States district court for Indiana Politicians feel sure that it will be one of the two.

Just before General Harrison left here for Washington, Judge Gresham came here and held court for a day or two. It was reported on high authority that during that visit Judge Gresham and General Harrison met and were reconciled; that Judge Gresham was offered and accepted the first vacancy on the supreme bench, that Judge Woods was told that he should be promoted to the United States circuit judgeship which Judge Gresham now has.

Judge Gresham has not been offered the place, however and there are influential republicans who say that neither Miller nor Woods would be confirmed by the senate even if nominated.

HIGH LICENSE BETTER

Cardinal Gibbons Speaks in Its Favor and Denounces Prohibition

BALTIMORE, May 28.—Cardinal Gibbons is an earnest advocate of high license.

In a communication on the subject he says I am decidedly opposed to prohibition as a means of preventing intemperance, because it does not prohibit. Experience has shown that in those states where prohibition has been tried it is not an effective means of preventing the vice of drinking Prohibition is to be discouraged also, because it confounds the drunkard with those who use liquor in moderation, making out a sin where there is no sin. The only places where prohibition might be enforced are thinly settled country districts. I regard high license, with a moral sanction, as the most efficient way of diminishing the drinking vice. In order to make high license effective, only a limited number of licenses should be issued for each ward, and they should be given only to persons of good reputation'

The cardinal is also in favor of a severe Sunday law prohibiting the sale of all liquors on Sunday, and would have that law rigidly enforced.

SHORT IN THEIR ACCOUNTS.

Two Prominent Kentucky Men Indicted by the Grand Jury.

CINCINNATI, May 28.—Ex Treasurer Louis Constans, of Newport, Kentucky was to-day indicted by the grand jury for embezzlement, the amount being fixed at $35,000. Ex-City Clerk William McClure was also indicted on the same charge.

Much surprise is felt in both cases. Both men are of high standing in the community, and neither had been suspected of any intentional wrong doing.

Constans admitted a shortage of nearly $7000, but seemed confused when shown a shortage of $27 000 in one omission from his cash book.

CREMATION OF A CATHOLIC

The Body Was Denied Interment in Consecrated Ground

NEW YORK, May 28.—Last Sunday Carrie A Mahrenholz died. An application for the interment of the body in the Calvary Catholic cemetery was denied on the ground that no priest was at the deathbed. To-day the body was cremated at Fresh Pond

The circumstances may open a new phase of the Catholic burial question as the father of the girl now declares that he will cause the disinterment and incineration of the bodies of eight members of his family now in the Calvary cemetery

THE PRESBYTERIANS ADJOURN.

Their Resolution Not Meant as an Indorsement of Any Political Party.

NEW YORK, May 28.—At the opening of the Presbyterian general assembly to-day, Rev Dr Crosby offered a resolution setting forth that the action taken yesterday in the temperance question must not be construed as an indorsement of any political party It was unanimously adopted.

The centennial fund committee announced that $16 000 had been raised for disabled ministers

At the evening session the place of the next meeting was fixed at Saratoga Springs, on the last Thursday in May 1890

Final adjournment was then taken.

Indians En Route for Europe

CHICAGO, May 28.—Two Sioux Indians named "Flies Above and "Walks-under-the-Ground with twenty-eight others from the Pine Ridge agency, passed through Chicago this morning on their way to Europe. They will be on exhibition in London, Vienna, Berlin and St. Petersburg and will appear under the management of F C Whitney and Dr Carver.

WOODRUFF PEACHES.

He Claims To Have Had No Hand in the Murder.

BUT HELPED TO HIDE THE BODY

Only One Name Is Used in His Statement. That of Williams, the Missing Man—The Hiding of the Body.

CHICAGO, May 28.—The most sensational development so far in the investigation of the Cronin case was announced late to-night, in the shape of a new confession by Black alias Woodruff, in which he tells the whole story of his connection with Dr Cronin's murder. It seems he was not directly connected with the murder itself, but simply acted as driver of the wagon which disposed of the dead man's body

Woodruff has been taken by Captain Schaack and men to the scene of the murder, to the sewer where the body was found and the place where the trunk was first seen. He gave driving directions to the detectives and in every instance located the exact places.

According to his confession, he was directed by those who had charge of that part of the conspiracy, and whose names Captain Schaack reserves for reasons that are palpable, to go to Dean's livery stable, where he would obtain a horse and wagon He was instructed to drive out to the neighborhood of the Carlson cottage, and also knew for what purpose he was to go there. He arrived at the cottage about twenty minutes before Dr Cronin was driven up.

Three-quarters of an hour after Dr Cronin entered the cottage, the man who is known as Williams opened the front door of the cottage and signalled Woodruff, who at once drove up Assisted by a third man, the trunk was loaded into the wagon and Woodruff directed to drive eastward to the lake at a certain point that Woodruff has designated to Captain Schaack.

The trunk and its contents would have been deposited in the lake, had not an interruption come in the shape of the approach of a policeman. This caused a change of plans, and immediate steps were taken to get out of the officer's way A circuitous route finally brought them again to the Evanston road, and as they had been now driving for nearly an hour with the ghastly load, one of them suggested the sewer They stopped at Fifty-third street, the top was taken off a man hole, and the trunk lifted from the wagon. It was impossible to put the trunk into the man hole, and as the key had been lost, the top was kicked in, the body put in the sewer and the trunk again placed in the wagon

They then started again for the cottage, intending there to burn the trunk, but on reaching the spot where the trunk was found, they heard a noise of wagon wheels, and throwing the trunk out of the wagon drove rapidly away in another direction.

At Fullerton avenue Woodruff's companions bade him good night, and left him.

The remainder of the confession is devoted to Woodruff's wanderings in his attempt to sell the horse and wagon. He also states that there is nothing in the woman story first told by him. The names of King and Fairburn were those of two old friends which occurred to him at the time of his first story They had nothing whatever to do with the case.

THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

The Large Building Said To Be Dilapidated and Liable to Collapse.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Owing to the dilapidated condition of the government printing office building a condition of quiet trepidation and fear exists among the employes. Some time ago an architect warned the public printer that the building he occupied was in a dangerous condition, and that any sudden jar was liable to make the floor give way and precipitate the whole structure in a mass to the ground.

The building is about 100 feet long, probably 200 feet in width, and four stories in height. It is very old and of ancient architecture. It is packed full of heavy machinery, type, paper and ink.

Public Printer Palmer, upon taking his office, declined to assume the responsibility of occupying the building without first receiving advice from a practical architect, and he called Mr Clark, the architect of the capitol, to make a thorough examination of the structure. When the report was received, Mr Palmer issued an order prohibiting the moving of packages weighing more than 200 pounds from place to place on the various floors.

There are over 2200 persons employed in the building and many of them are women. The scene which would follow the tumbling of even a small section of the floor in this building would be very disastrous.

THEIR SUMMER VACATIONS.

The Plans Being Made by the President and Members of the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—President Harrison and the members of the cabinet are making arrangements for their summer vacations. President Harrison does not expect to spend another Sunday by Washington until September.

THE STATE GRANGE.

First Day of the Sixteenth Annual Session.

A SPEECH BY THE GOVERNOR

His Excellency Reiterates His Peculiar Views on Public Questions—Other Literary Features—Etc

SALEM, Ogn, May 28.—The sixteenth annual session of the Oregon state grange convened in the senate chamber of the capitol building at 10 A M to-day with a full attendance of local and visiting members. Thomas McConnell, wife and daughter Jennie B. McConnell, together with A. T. Dewey and wife, left for the Facific Rural Press and secretary of the California state grange were present as representatives of that state.

The committee on credentials found a very one delegates present representing various counties of the state and Washington.

The report of the secretary and treasurer showed that the order at present is flourishing during the year receipts being much as a said over former years and the membership correspondingly enlarged. Twenty new granges have been organized and five old ones reorganized.

ADDRESS BY GOVERNOR PENNOYER.

At the afternoon session the senate chamber was well filled. State Master Hayes presided and introduced the governor, who gave the address of welcome as follows:

Worthy Master Ladies and Gentlemen of the State Grange of Oregon: Again upon your annual gathering I bid you welcome to the halls of the state capitol. It is indeed proper that the delegates of your order should be welcomed at your yearly convention by the governor of the state. It is but a simple official recognition of the importance of the chief calling of our common wealth. No quite one month ago the citizens of this country celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington as first president of the United States. The growth of our republic from four to sixty five millions of people during the past century is indeed most marvelous. Has our country in regard to the just needs of its husbandmen decadence of its institutions kept pace with its growth in population and material wealth. If so we have high reason for general congratulation. If not so we have grave occasion for both personal reflection and earnest action. Two years ago I called your attention to the fact which I now repeat that when the federal constitution was put in operation agriculture was the most flourishing and profitable occupation in the United States. The wealthiest men of the nation were farmers and George Washington who a century ago the last day of last month took the oath of office as first president of the United States was a successful farmer. To day the wealthiest men of the United States are not farmers. In this age of million dires there is not one single farmer who is or can become in the pursuance of his avocation a millionaire.

From being as it was a century ago in this country the most profitable occupation, agriculture has now become the least profitable calling of people. Observation, experience and statistics alike confirm this fact. It is seen and felt on every hand and in every portion of our widespread republic. The hard and incessant toil of the agriculturists is not remunerated with its fitting wards proportionately with the rewards of those in other callings as it was a century ago. As a consequence a feeling of unrest and disquiet pervades our farming population prompting it to hope for better results in other localities until it is really becoming a race of nomads, exhausting the pittance of its reserved funds in the vain hope of bettering its fortunes by a change of habitation.

What is the great underlying cause of this alarming to the healthy condition of the agriculturists of our country? This, farmers of Oregon, is a question that affects your interests, and it is therefore a question that should demand your most serious inquiries. It because the government through the operation of its laws, has placed greater burdens upon the agriculturists for the benefit of other classes than it has placed upon other avocations for the benefit of the farmer? Is the distribution of favors by revenue legislation unequal? If so it is a grave injustice inflicted by the government, against which every farmer of the land, irrespective of political association and belief, should join in one solemn and unceasing protest until such injustice shall forever be abolished. The farmer should consent to be taxed only a portion for the support of the government but ought to be exempt from being taxed for the exclusive benefit of individuals in other callings. No later truth was ever uttered by any man than that which was expressed by Gen. Hancock in the following address to the citizens when he declared that the prosperous conditions could never be extended to any one class at the expense of the other classes. What he declared truly in peace is therefore the duty of legislators to enforce a strict obedience to the rules of justice in practice.

Is it just or right to take by law from one class of the citizens of a nation any of its profits and give it to another class for the sole purpose of building up or enriching the latter class? Was that the great purpose for which our government was founded? There is no single citizen of our whole land who will claim that such a precedence conforms with the plain rules of distributive justice, the enforcement of which was imperatively demanded by the illustrious framers of our country. Each industry in our nation is justly entitled to its own rewards, without the interposition of law for its injury or benefit, and in its palpable violation of the very plainest rules of justice for the laws to rot the rightful possession of any portion of such rewards for the enrichment of any other individuals in any other pursuits. The interventions of law ought to be exercised for the restriction of trade among a few people.

One year ago I referred to the well-established historical fact that it was the restrictions which the British parliament placed upon the trade of the colonies by which the people of such colonies were compelled to buy within the government at enhanced prices manufactured articles, which, but for such protective legislation could have been bought cheaper elsewhere, that first aroused that patriotic resistance which culminated in the establishment of American independence.

Can it be possible that this great doctrine for which our fathers contended of resistance to legislative restriction of trade for the purpose of enriching certain industries within the country at the expense of other industries shall be abandoned? That agriculture does not hold its relative position of prosperity in this country as it did one hundred years ago, and that the probable cause of such changed conditions is to be mainly attributable to some revenue laws which by their invidious discrimination against our farming interests plainly violate the eternal rules of right are truths which cannot be denied. Does the federal government wish to conform its legislation to those rules? Does it wish to enforce a strict adherence to the rules of distributive justice? If so let it at once compel the great wealth of the country as it sought through the enactment of an income tax to help bear the burden of taxation from which burden it is now most unjustly exempted, let it hereafter strictly forego the taxation of income, in future for the benefit of other industries and let it shield it of its case from the imposition of undue exactions from corporate power built up in some cases by government and under other cases exercising functions that the government itself ought to exercise, and upon the industries of the nation relieved of the most unequal burdens they now bear, will all of them awaken to new life and prosperity and the prophetic smiles of heaven will still be further extended upon our nation because of such just regard for the eternal rules of right by an entire immunity of taxation for the benefit of favored classes and by an equitable distribution of the burden of taxation for the support of the government for the great purposes of equality of taxation the exemption of the industries and the necessities of the people now chiefly taxed and the whole of the wealth of the nation now exempt, except so the support for the common defense, farmer and of every lover of his country.

Our country is enjoying an era of unparalleled prosperity. And who can wonder? Never has there been in the whole world's history a country so blessed by Providence. With a continent stretching from ocean to ocean through many degrees of long rude and from its fertile to its rich mineral soil has eminently fitted it to be the poor man's paradise, the oppressed man's asylum and the industrious man's heaven. A nation under such advantageous conditions could prosper even in the face of the most invidious legislation which has degraded the condition of its yeomanry and has builded up by legislative favors a privileged class of plutocrats. Upon the threshold of this, a new era all is changed. No longer have we a wide expanse of fertile territory upon which the poor man can found a home for his children. No longer have we as our fathers had one century ago a population possessed of comparatively an equal share of wealth. The immunity they had from the cruel and brutal hand of corporate power which in the form of legislation, is to a great extent responsible for the present vast wealth and power of the few. We are now confronted by the certainty of favorable conditions which empires have sought for a century in governmental policy. With all the prudent foresight of our governors of the past, class legislation for the benefit of the rich. No further acquiescence by the people will be required to the exemption by a class of the great mass of the vast wealth of the country from taxation.

The existence of corporate power upon the present scale must be effectually curbed. And finally it will rest with the masses of distributive justice must be established by the all strong father of humanity in order to warn our irresponsible corporate combinations of heaven's and our country's inexorable decrees that the very integrity of our free institutions as the rightful barrier to the rights of our posterity.

LOT JUMPERS DEFEATED

An Important Decision in a Land Case at Helena.

HELENA, Mont. May 28.—Judge Blake rendered a decision yesterday in an important case, the issue involving titles to a large amount of valuable Helena property. It was a test case brought by one of the parties interested, and affected all those who were similarly situated. The contest was made on the question as to the legality of two different surveys the Wheaton being the original and the McIntire made later. John Mong was the owner under the original survey of three lots in the present business center, and his widow has a deed from Probate Judge Hilger establishing her right. The two surveys vary slightly as to the size and location of various lots. Under these conditions George B. Luotz some time ago on the claim that the lots as bounded in the McIntire survey were vacant, entered second a deed from Probate Judge Clement.

The decision of Judge Blake sustains the validity of the original survey. The case is a very important one, as the records following Judge Clement's action in giving a deed to Foote were of a semi-fraudulent character and came near precipitating a riot. There was a strong effort made to secure other property in a similar manner and over since this episode it has been referred to as the lot jumping period.

The action of a few unscrupulous men created an excitement that has rarely been surpassed in Helena's history and at one time threatened to lead to bloodshed. Had Foote's claim been sustained by the courts, it would have had the effect to disturb titles to real estate and make valueless to seriously threaten the well being of Helena.

Lucie fell, but arose a second before the round closed, dazed with a left hander in the eye.

She left New York in February 1849 and after touching at Rio Janeiro passed through the Straits of Magellan. The vessel put into Valparaiso, Callao, Panama and San Diego, at which latter port she landed the mail and many colonists, expected to run the line between the United States and Mexico in accordance with the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. It is stated that the sailors on the war ships have been busy preparing for a long cruise taking three months supplies fuel etc.

The Panama was commended on her return voyage as far as Panama by David D. Porter now admiral of the navy. Captain David Banks long since deceased, brought the steamer from Panama to San Francisco.

Where is Chas Chang Ping?

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Notwithstanding the fact that the United States supreme court has affirmed the decision of Judge Sawyer of the United States circuit court in the case Chas Chang Ping case, and ordered the subject of the writ to be released, no official steps have as yet been taken towards carrying out the order of the court. Chas Chang Ping is still enjoying his liberty on American soil, but where he is no one seems to know. It is the general opinion about the United States courts and custom house that some little difficulty will be experienced in finding Chas Chang Ping.

The San Francisco Wheat Fleet

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—All of the January wheat fleet have arrived off, except five. The twenty five from that month's fleet which have been reported as their destination have made an unusually good time, the extremes being from 124 to 97 days, and the average being 117 days. One of the unreported five is now out 155 days. One vessel must have wandered away from the favorable breezes which carried the others over the sea so rapidly. One of the other four is out 125 days, and the other three, 120 days.

MR. VILLARD'S SIDE OF IT

The following letter is furnished for publication.

PORTLAND, Or., May 28.

Hon. George H. Williams, Attorney for the Oregon & Transcontinental Company, Portland, Oregon—My Dear Judge: It is very gratifying to know, from personal observation, that the good people of Portland are no longer shutting their eyes to the true situation regarding the recent June elections of the Oregon & Transcontinental and the Oregon Railway & Navigation Companies. I find it has hard for any citizen of Portland to believe that Mr. Villard would, by act or deed, do anything knowingly against the best interests of Portland, and they now see that the lines and cry against that gentleman has been made for such motives and by parties only little interested in the properties in question. Mr. Villard not only created what was the greatest boom to our whole Northwest country (the completing of the Northern Pacific railroad, and building of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's lines but has since come to the rescue of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company and saved it from disaster by negotiating the securities of that company when no one else could be found to come to its aid.

The parties now desiring to continue in control against the wishes of the owners, have been endeavoring to make our people believe that the only object of Mr. Villard is to get control of his own and friends' property in order to wreck it by injuring Portland; while the truth is he is endeavoring to obtain control of what belongs to him for his protection. Any disaster that may come to the city of Portland or to the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company will be more serious to Mr. Villard and his friends than it possibly can be to any other party or parties or to any community. If Mr. Villard desire to issue preferred stock of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company when the proper time arrives, it is simply for the benefit of that company, and in that is the only method of saving the owners of the stock from great loss, as the holders of the stock of that company are as much entitled to protection as the holders of stock in any company in the United States, and it will simply be adopting the same method that has been adopted by Mr. Elijah Smith, president of the Oregon Improvement Company, some few years since when that gentleman organized and there were issued two millions of dollars worth of preferred stock in addition to seven millions of common stock then in existence, and the Oregon Improvement Company is now paying preferred dividends on this same preferred stock.

Mr. Villard has broad enough business views, and capacity, to be interested in more than one enterprise at once, and his intelligence enables him to know that no community can prosper by the crippling of another, and unless our whole northwest country is prosperous no local community can succeed. Yours truly,

H. H. VINCENT.

BRITISH WAR VESSELS.

A Powerful Fleet to Cruise in Behring Sea.

PROTECTION FOR THE SEALERS

A Difference of Opinion as to Whether Measures by the United States Will Be Tolerated—Statements From Ottawa.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 28.—It is known from the best authority that Admiral Hemeage will hoist his flagship swiftsure accompanied by the warships Amphion and Icarus two fast cruisers of the men of war Champion, as now en route to this port and will proceed to Behring sea not later than June 15.

When the report became common very little else was talked of on the streets. The ship's force a powerful fleet. The Amphion is the finest cruiser that has ever visited this coast and one of the finest in the British navy.

What give a strong color to the prevailing idea that Great Britain will not permit any armed force of her sealers this season is the fact that before calling for Behring sea, the captains of the various schooners were assured that they would receive protection and that in the event of trouble the fleet would stand by them.

Speculation is rife here as to the outcome of the dispute. It is stated that the sailors on the war ships have been busy preparing for a long cruise taking three months supplies fuel etc.

OPINION AT OTTAWA.

It Is Much More Conservative Than That Expressed Above.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 28.—Speaking with reference to the action of the American government in sending three cruisers to Behring sea a prominent cabinet member said to a reporter for the associated press to-day: "I am hopeful of a peaceable settlement, and negotiations were progressing favorably before the republicans assumed office. Secretary Bayard had gone so far as to propose an international convention on to take steps for the protection of the fur bearing animals in Behring sea and the sea of Okhotsk. Japan, Russia and England had agreed to send representatives. I don't anticipate trouble this year. Although Sir John Thompson proceeded to Behring sea. Their presence is only natural. Canadian sealers venturing north will be warned of their danger as usual and will be advised to return in case of seizure Canadian seamen cannot expect protection from the British men-of-war unless some flagrant outrage is committed. After the seizure of the vessels the owners can seek compensation through diplomatic channels.

NOVA SCOTIA SEALERS COMING.

Object of the Dispatch of British War Vessels to Behring Sea.

OTTAWA, May 28.—The government has been advised that a large number of Canadian sealers which have been fitting out at Victoria, B. C., will sail in a few days for Behring sea.

A number of Nova Scotia sealers encouraged by the success of the Pacific coast vessels last season in avoiding capture by the United States revenue cutters, are bringing their vessels around Cape Horn, intending to capture fur seals within the protected zone claimed by the Americans.

A prominent government official said to a reporter that there was no doubt that the Canadian sealers would strive to hunt in Behring sea despite the presence of the American war vessels. The British men-of-war he said would not make any move to prevent the sailing of these vessels by so doing they would in a measure countenance the American claims to exclusive sovereignty in the disputed waters. On the other hand if any Canadian vessels are molested by the American war ships, the vessels would not try to recapture them, as that would be a signal for open hostility. The object of the presence of the British warships was simply to see that no outrages were committed, and to show that Great Britain has not given up to the contentions of the United States.

THE POISONING OF MAYBRICK

Criminating Evidence Brought Out at the Liverpool Inquest.

LIVERPOOL, May 28.—The inquest over the body of Maybrick, whose death is supposed to have been occasioned by poison administered by his wife was begun to-day.

Michael Maybrick, a brother of the deceased testified that he visited his brother during his illness. He suspected that his brother was receiving improper treatment but his wife insisted upon her right to nurse her husband. Witness then upon summoned two doctors and a new nurse. He also asked a bottle containing brandy and extract of meat from Mrs. Maybrick's bedside. Maybrick changing the contents and labels of the medicine bottles. He remonstrated with her and asked her how she dare do such a thing. She replied that there was sediment in the bottles. Witness again caused a change of nurse. Notwithstanding his precautions, however, his brother grew worse and died in a short time. He was delirious towards the end and after his death the nurse gave witness a parcel labeled arsenic poison for cats." It contained several bottles in which was a white fluid, and from which the labels had been erased. Witness placed the bottles under seal and gave them to the police.

The nurse also produced a letter and told how Mrs. Maybrick had given her the letter to post, and that while on the way to do this she dropped the letter on the pavement. In opening the letter with the intention of placing it in another envelope, she noticed that it contained a number of endearing words.

The following sentences particularly attracted her attention. "Dearest, my husband is sick unto death. All depends upon how long his strength can hold out. Darling, relieve your mind of all fear of discovery now or in the future. In any case, do not leave England until I see you once again."

LINES FOR THE O. R. & N.

Objects of the Oregon Railway Extension Company.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC REPORT

Injurious Effects of the Interstate Commerce Law and the Canadian Pacific—Earnings of the St. Paul

WALLA WALLA, W T May 28.—Monday the Oregon Railway Extension Company filed a mortgage here to the Farmers Loan & Trust Company, of New York. It covers the following prospective roads From a point on the O R & N line near Alto, through Eureka Flat to Walla Walla, another from near Estes this county, across the flat to Grange City, and thence office a junction with the O R & N line A road from Portland to Astoria is named in the document.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Mr. Kerr's Report Amounted to Nearly Sixteen Million Dollars.

SAN FRANCISCO May 28.—The annual report of the Southern Pacific Company for 1888 was issued to-day. This report is stated to be the most complete of any ever issued in the interest of the president and directors call attention to the fact that the capital stock, which in 1884 was fixed at $100 000 000 was increased in 1888 to $150 000,000 The total number of miles operated during the year including the Atlantic system and leased lines was 9 58 an increase of 586 miles for the year

Gross earnings from railroads and steamships reach a total of $46,622 0.0 Operating expenses amounted to $30 768 000, leaving net earnings of $15,860,000. The total earnings of the Central Pacific for 1888 were $15,828 000

Jerome Madden, land agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company reports that 69 419 acres were sold for $459,008. William H Mills, land agent of the Central Pacific, states that 20 31 acres were sold during the year, for $28 393

A E Towne, third vice president and general manager, in his fourth annual report, states that the company has entered upon an era of great prosperity and that the varied industries of the regions through which the road runs have never been in better condition. There are now 696 locomotives in the service. Train miles ran during the year were over 18,000,000.

Local traffic within and interchanged business between the various states and territories traversed is steadily increasing and despite the serious due to the enforcement of the interstate commerce act, through competitive traffic is as satisfactory and commercial relations as harmonious as could be possible under legislation that is opposed to the laws of nature and trade. The government Towne says, in its initial attempt to regulate internal communication and transportation, rendered still more complex the delicate relations between the people and the carriers the latter being further embarrassed by the unrestricted competition of the Canadian Pacific and of various water lines. He expresses a hope that congress will adjust the obnoxious and impracticable provisions of the act, so as to give due protection to the great interests represented by the railroad companies of the United States. No restriction should be laid upon one by a law which cannot be imposed with equal rigidity upon all

Comment is made on all the changes introduced on the various lines of the system as detailed in statements of equipment and repairs. The cost of the locomotive service and repairs was $7 057 17, or 2,000,000 more than in the previous year This portion of the voluminous report closes with a statement of the employes hospital service At the four hospitals 1615 patients were admitted 177 being received at the Sacramento hospital Forty-eight patients died, and on December 31 100 were still under treatment. The cost of maintaining the hospitals was $56,996.

ST. PAUL EARNINGS.

A Remarkable Increase During the Past Ten Months.

NEW YORK, May 28.—A great deal of importance was attached to the St Paul statement for the month of April issued to-day as it clearly indicated what the result of the operations for the fiscal year ending June 30 would be The fiscal year heretofore was the same as the calendar year, but was changed by the Wisconsin legislature, so that it will end June 30 hereafter

For the ten months of the new fiscal year already reported the net earnings were $7 650 41, against $7 048,946 in the twelve months of the calendar year ending December 31, 1888 This is more than enough to pay the fixed charges for the entire year and the April dividend of 2½ per cent. on the preferred stock

In 1888 the interest on the funded debt amounted to $2,096,976 and the April dividend on the preferred stock was $840,572, making a total requirement of $2,599,548, and leaving a balance from the ten months' earnings of $4 165

Calculating the income from other sources as in the calendar year, at $215,178 and the net earnings for the last two months of the fiscal year the same as in 1888, $789,812, there should be a surplus over all charges, including the April dividend of $1 12 1/2 from the operations of the fiscal year of $1 2 1/2

After this statement was issued the friends of the St. Paul directors intimated strongly that the scheme for funding the high rate interest bonds and the preferred stock into long time bonds bearing 5 per cent interest had been practically completed.

It is understood that about $15 000 000 worth of the bonds maturing within the next ten years will be funded immediately The funding operations are expected to reduce the charges ahead of the common stocks $500,000 per annum

SURVEYING PARTIES AT MISSOULA.

A Line To Be Run From the Latter Point to Mullan on the N P

HELENA, Mont. May 28.—A corps of thirty surveyors under L R Lathrop, recently in charge of the force at work on the Bitter Root road are now encamped at Missoula. Another party from the west joined them there last night, and the indications are that a line will be constructed from Missoula down the river to join the Northern Pacific at Mullan.

It is alleged in certain quarters however that the work does not mean anything except to force, in the event that any other road begins work.

CASE OF CHRISTIAN VS SCOTT

Judge Deady Renders a Decision on the Motion for a New Trial in the U. S District Court.

In rendering his decision on a motion for a new trial, in the case of Christian vs. Scott, receiver, in the United States district court Judge Deady said

In the conduct of the train on which the deceased brakeman lost his life, the conductor was the vice principal and stood for the defendant Upon the decision of M W & St. Paul Railway Co v Ross, 112 U S 377 this proposition is not open to controversy and never ought to have been. On the trial the junior counsel admitted that the conductor was the vice principal, but the senior counsel contended for the contrary

The rule of the defendant was proved on the trial forbidding the making of flying switches

A question was made on the argument of the motion for new trial as to who was bound by this rule. It was binding on the conductor, of course, but possibly not unqualifiedly on the brakeman It cannot be supposed that a flying switch will be made without the direction of the conductor, for whose government this rule was made

If the brakeman aids in making such a switch of his own motion—voluntarily—he acts in violation of the rule and is guilty of negligence But he does so in pursuance of the direction of the conductor, my impression is that he is excusable in fact, that the rule is thereby suspended as to him.

And if the defendant, as represented by the conductor, has habitually or customarily disregarded the rule while operating the trains I think it should be considered abrogated altogether

The burden of proof is on the plaintiff to show that the deceased came to his death by the negligence or misconduct of the defendant. Proof of such fact in the employ of the defendant without satisfactory proof that the same was wholly caused by the negligence or misconduct will not warrant a verdict for the plaintiff On whom rests the burden of proof is on the defendant to show that the negligence of the deceased contributed to his injury

When the flying switch was about to be made as the train approached Brownsville, the deceased said to the conductor to pull the pin that coupled the forward box car to the tender and stay with the engine He went forward, and as the train uncoupled it has been assumed that he pulled the pin but there is no direct evidence on the subject, whether he did stay or attempt to stay with the engine as directed or not

Is there any direct evidence how he came to fall to the ground between the cars, and thus lose his life? Was it caused by the negligence or misconduct of the defendant in the conduct of the train or that of the deceased in the discharge of the duty in which he was engaged at the time? Was it the concurrent negligence of both, or whether it was the result of accident, he could be turned

In the argument to the jury the senior counsel for the defendant advanced the theory that the deceased did not get on the gooseneck of the tender to pull the pin and attempt to stay with the engine as he was directed or the order necessarily implied, but that he stood on the forward end of the boxcar, caught hold of the lower round of the iron ladder on the forward right hand side of the car with his left hand and leaning forward and pulled the pin with his right hand, and then, having attempted to replace the pin in the tender and let it drop, proceeded to get off of it, with the intention of reaching the ground on the north side of the boxcar and then descending the ladder on the forward end of the next car, and that in stepping from the one car to the other, he missed his footing and fell between them to the ground and was killed by being rolled under the air brake beams as they passed over him about eighteen inches above the ties

In the instructions to the jury the court said that the burden of proof was on the plaintiff to show that the deceased lost his life by the negligence or misconduct of the defendants. But in what is called in the argument the theory of the defense in this case, the apparent contradictions between the facts stated by it and those shown by the plaintiff, and particularly a diagram of the place and the occurrence introduced and vouched for by the defendant.

For instance, that the train was moving at the rate of about eight miles an hour, or, in round numbers, twelve feet a second It is not probable that the deceased, after dropping the pin, climbed upon the box car and walked about the length of it about thirty feet, and fell to the ground from the rear end of it in less than fifteen seconds. And if he did occupy that time the car would have moved forward in the meantime 180 feet from where the pin fell Now according to the diagram the body was found after the train was stopped, only 150 feet forward of the pin and counsel claims that the disturbance of the ballast on the track indicated that he was rolled forward under the cars for the 150 feet of that distance while the strong probability is that he fell much sooner and was rolled much farther than this. But on the theory advanced by counsel, the defendant instead of falling at a distance of 138 feet from where he dropped the pin must have fallen 183 feet therefrom Therefore, the court suggested the theory and the diagram did not agree.

But the diagram also shows that the lantern which the deceased carried struck the ground and was broken into fragments less than twenty feet forward of where the pin was found—a distance that was traversed by the train in less than two seconds—during which time it seems impossible that the deceased could have passed from the tender to the rear end of the box car The deceased was found with the wire frame work of the lantern on his arm or in his hand and the utmost unreasonable inference is that in striking the ground and breaking the glass while so held by him and that was the broken glass was found was the place where the deceased fell and that his body was carried along under the car by the air brake beams to the point where it was found, a distance of about 150 feet

Counsel for defendant then questioned the correctness of the suggestions of the court with some show of errror, and excepted to them, whereupon the court further explained the matter with probable some degree of earnestness but saying, to the jury as he had already said that these suggestions about matters of fact were submitted to them for their consideration and of which they must judge for themselves But counsel with still more temper objected and excepted and to the case went to the jury promptly on the question of the truth or probability of this defense proposed by counsel for the defendant concerning which of course Brown was room but for one conclusion with the real question as to whether upon the evidence it appeared that the deceased lost his life by the negligence or misconduct of the defendant was thereby obscured

Dana Langdon brakeman Reuben Burch conductor F D Metcam agent and A L Hamilton, engineer withdrew denials in answer and pay all costs of the former trial.

"OUR DEAD HEROES"

Synopsis of the Memorial Address by Rev David Wetzell, at the First Christian Church

Sunday evening Rev David Wetzell pastor of the First Christian church, of Portland, delivered a memorial address. The following is a brief summary

The ministers of our city are requested to preach sermons bearing on our dead patriots. With this request, on my part I gladly comply Lessons of patriotism cannot be brought to the minds of our people and children too often, for only as the fires of patriotism burn upon the hearts of the people, is the country safe. Next to my God and my family, I love my country most My patriotism has never been called in question.

Dead must be the heart of the American that does not throb with deep emotion at the sight of the stars and stripes, as they float over a glorious nation, the most glorious the sun in the heavens ever looked down upon But our national life was only preserved to us by the sacrifice of life. The boys who wore the blue, that now lie mouldering in the grave enforce the lesson of all time —"life for life" Strange indeed that this lesson should be accepted politically and and rejected religiously? The angel of death passed over our beloved land, but it was not until many of our first born had been slain, and for a quarter of a century there has been great lamentation by the Rachels of our land because their loved ones are not They went down in the conflict that threatened the life of our country But they to-day are enshrined in the hearts of America's living They are not forgotten God forbid that we should ever forget them These great processions of men women and children that have wended their way to the cities of the dead, and that will repeat the scene next Thursday to scatter sweet flowers upon their graves, tell us the silent sleepers are not forgotten As we pass by their graves and read the history of their struggles in their long weary marches and bloody battles, our hearts cry out God spare the men of this land from any more such bitter sacrifices, and God spare the brave mothers heroic wives and loving daughters from passing through weeks and months and years of such anxiety as marked the heart throbbings of the women of this land from 61 to 65.

To avoid a repetition of such an internal trouble we must look well to our bearings I hope the time will never come when I, as a minister of the Gospel will close my mouth to the dangers that beset us for fear some party will take offense With me country is above party So long as we are Americans in spirit, thought and practice our country is safe Danger is ahead when we lose the spirit that prompted the boys in blue to pour out the last drop of their hearts blood They died for America, and for America's glory They died in tramping out a foreign plant that had been set out in our soil This same spirit of often sits foreignism is at work in our land There are thousands of honest foreigners among us—Germans English Irish Danes, Swedes, etc.—but there are other thousands who are bent on beautifying America. My honest conviction is that we are in great danger from this element, and many of our politicians are afraid to antagonize it. After confessing our danger from this quarter an Illinois lawmaker said to me that he did not dare oppose this element as it would lose him votes With such demagogism I have not the least sympathy The sacrifice of the boys in blue ought to inspire truer patriotism than this No man has the right to take the oath of allegiance who is not in hearty sympathy with our American institutions

The discourse was concluded with the following peroration

The graves of our dear boys teach us to hate war The history of their awful sufferings on their long marches and on the gory field inspires us to hate war At my old home some months ago I came across my father's diary kept through the three years of his army life Its record of hardship hunger and hard fighting made me hate war And then when I turned from that diary to look upon the face and form of that father, which bore the marks of those years of suffering and which would go into the grave years before they ought, in my heart I cursed war And am I alone in hating war?

Let the thousands of hearts touched by those years of bloodshed answer The wives made widows, the parents childless, the children fatherless the sisters brotherless will not be comforted because their husbands fathers, sons and brothers are not. They are sleeping the sleep of death They went out to defend their country's flag and fell in the fray Their familiar steps they no longer hear Their manly forms no more enter the homes at eventide when the day is done They went at freedom's call and when the troops came marching home again many were the gaps in the columns which told that the enemy had not fired in vain Vacant chairs sat around many a fireside draped in the trappings of death and while the bright stars white and crimson stripes proudly float from sea to sea yet it cost the blood of thousands as brave and heroic souls as ever set foot on earth For the boy who wore the gray I have no harsh words His was a mistaken zeal I stand in admiration of his courage and bravery, for he was courageous and brave but deeply do I regret that he was misled That he thought he was right I have never questioned That he was wrong I know That his wrong here will bar him out of heaven I do not believe For a man may be politically wrong yet religiously right. The philanthropy which is of heaven, bids us tender him our cordial affection and unfeigned love. We in the north away from the field of battle little knew the fearful cost to the South The thousands of brave boys of Southern chivalry who bit the dust in those awful frays can never be replaced. Do you not think in their hearts, the bone and sinew of the South curse war? How can they do otherwise? Hungry half starved fifty cled are women whose husbands fathers and brothers fell in battle, and whose fields were laid waste by the ravages of war can they do otherwise than curse war? Who can describe the condition of the boys who wore the gray Broken homes desolated plantations broken hearts destroyed mill ions, blighted hopes, thus fitly describe the condition of the Southland when the smoke of war cleared away In my young heart, as I read of their disasters on their own farms in their own groves and orchards I pitied them In my some what older heart I sympathize deeply with them now They know of the horrors of war as we do not War is wrong per se. Wrong because when the smoke of battle is cleared up we see hundreds of lifeless bodies telling us that hundreds of souls have been whirled into eternity in the twinkling of an eye Peace sweet peace peace not in name only, but in fact, is the earnest desire of philanthropic hearts

The Savior of men came to establish a reign of peace the fair prospect of God from the mount of prophetic vision told of a coming day of peace when the swords shall be beaten into plowshares and the spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more Turn steel from out God's mountains that has been made into implements of warfare shall be converted into implements of industry and the West is to it in which men learn war shall be turned into industrial schools where the youth shall learn to till the soil and the arts of industry and progress

The clashing of sabres the roaring of cannon the rattling of musketry are minded to the cause of civilization and genuine development Let us pray for peace. Could the boys in blue who lie sleeping to-night death's sleep, speak back to us from their graves they would plead with us to shun the terrors of war Guard well the country that peace sweet peace may reign would be their cry Then let us do nothing advocate nothing that will disturb the peace and tranquillity of our fair land but let that philanthropy born of heaven and bequeathed to man, rise higher and higher in our thought until peace will indeed reign and good will exist among our people, and let us follow the Great Commander of the armies of heaven and earth through all the conflicts of life until we shall receive as humble disciples from earth then we shall be received upon the bosom of heaven, and for our pension, eternal life

THE WALLOWA COUNTRY.

The last number of the Wallowa Chieftain says "W P Watson, who is at the head of the O R. & N. surveying party down the Wallowa river, called on us last Friday He was on a tour of observation through this portion of the country, and seemed perfectly satisfied that the country will justify the building of a railroad

There is no doubt, from all accounts that Mr Watson is perfectly correct in his opinion Out side of agricultural products the fine mines and several marble quarries of Joseph, would alone justify the building of a branch line from La Grande Specimens of the ores and marble of Joseph are now on exhibition at the Board of Immigration rooms and attract much attention With a railroad Wallowa would soon be one of leading counties of the state.

Speaking of the increase of settlers, the Chieftain also says "New arrivals to Wallowa county are an every day occurrence now We look for large immigration this summer"

The La Grande Journal says, Travel to Wallowa county seems to increase weekly The country offers a great many inducements to home seekers With a branch road from here to Joseph, a help would be given

After June 1 Griffin's four horse stage will make the trip from La Grande to Joseph, during the summer, in one day

MEDICAL ELECTRICITY.

The most wonderful part of man, most difficult to comprehend, perhaps, is the nervous system, which touches and controls every part of the body Having its root in the brain, its trunk in the spine and its branches extending into and throughout every muscle, limb and organ of the animal frame, it carries either life and health or disease and death along its course

The brain secretes a nervous fluid which is magnetic in its effects and influences The magnetic element travels along the nerves like electricity leaves the roots of the hair to the tips of the fingers and through its telegraphic communication permeates the whole system When the nervous fluid is deficient, or when the nerves do not properly transmit it, weakness and disease is the inevitable result Electricity the wonder of the age roots the disease from its stronghold It penetrates the secret ambush of disease and exterminates it, root and branch

It removes the wretched symptoms of loathsome maladies and avert their dreadful results It relieves more agony and suffering than tongue can tell as the following personal references will show

THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE

It is a fact often remarked as singular and strange that they who devote themselves chiefly to work that looks to the moral and spiritual elevation of mankind so often deviate from the true principles on which actual success in such work is always conditioned This has been the chief error of religious teachers in all ages They wish to push moral reform by appeal to force rather than to the understanding to make men's own path for virtue by trying to clear all obstacles from the way rather than by forming in men a principle that makes them triumph over all obstacles to virtue the easy and natural thing It has always been a habit with many churchmen to call in the secular power the law when they could wheedle it to compel the acceptance of their ideas and methods of moral and religious conduct — as if the principles of morality and religion were to be forced upon man from without rather than developed within him

But even in the churches there are many who see the error of this method Hence in the Presbyterian general assembly at New York there are those who see that in the attempt to promote the cause of temperance by prohibition of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors there is a fundamental error These persons it is true are not a majority of the assembly but they are quite numerous They see that intemperance is not in the thing to be prohibited but in the man himself that there can be no true temperance reform no true growth of the virtue of temperance except as that virtue is developed as a power in individuals through the upbuilding of character In abstaining from vice in any of the forms it takes except through choice or will there is no virtue Hence there is no true temperance in enforced abstinence from drink even if it could be made sure and effective and certainly there is none since it cannot be

The error of this and all similar methods is that they endeavor to keep the thing, whose use or abuse tends to vice away from the man instead of keeping the man away from the thing This reverses the order and method of moral development On this principle it would have been easy to have kept man from the original fall His Maker could have done it by not creating the forbidden fruit But on such a principle no moral character could have been developed in man In the model petition we do not find the words "Keep evil from us" but "Deliver us from evil"

But when nearly one-third of the members of a body like the Presbyterian general assembly cast their votes against prohibition as a thing inexpedient in method and erroneous in principle it is a sign that a true conception of the necessary conditions of moral reform is gaining ground Vice can be diminished or put down only by shunning it, by eschewing it by building up the character that abhors it It never can be outpaced by making war on the senseless objects or instruments it uses for its purposes In short the vice is in the man not in the instrument and one reason why reform makes the slow progress it does lies in the fact that the cart is so often put before the horse

THE CRONIN MURDER

All the time it has seemed probable that the Cronin murder in Chicago was the work of members of an Irish political society and now the probability has grown into an accepted fact The murder was the result of a conspiracy in which many were engaged, the motives of which have been known from the first to the murdered man's intimate friends Primarily the difficulty arose out of an alleged or suspected misappropriation of the funds of the Irish Land League. Cronin, who knew of the misappropriation, had scorched the country over collecting evidence to sustain the charge The clique however was too strong for him and himself and several of his friends were expelled But they organized a new clan and kept up the fight, and through the hatreds thus engendered and because his revelations were feared Cronin was murdered The authorities are now getting hold of the threads of the conspiracy and no doubt will soon unravel the whole plot It is probable that many men will be found implicated in the murder

The Clan na Gael, whose members are charged with the murder is a society of Irishmen in America, affiliating with the old revolutionary organizations in Ireland As a secret and dangerous society it has been denounced by the Catholic clergy, and members of the church have been discouraged from joining it One reason why Cronin's murder was so long a mystery is believed to be due to the ramifications of the Clan-na-Gael, and the presence of many of its members on the Chicago detective and police force A curious fact has been noted When Cronin's body was found it was entirely nude all the clothing had been removed and destroyed but there remained suspended by a ribbon round his neck a little heart shaped emblem, an Agnus Dei which the assassins, evidently through religious superstition had failed to destroy Awed even in the act of murder they could not bring themselves to remove this symbol though it would certainly prove a means of identification whenever the remains should be found

A UNIQUE PETITION

The truth of the old adage that what is everybody's business is nobody's business was disproved a short time ago by the action of a farming community that hastened a decision of the Indiana supreme court Mrs Caroline Smedman of Henry county in that state has had for some time weary some litigation about a farm left her by her husband Her neighbors and friends knowing her to be a worthy woman and struggling in a just cause saw that the law's delays were imposing grievous burdens upon her, which were wholly unnecessary, though unfortunately not without frequent precedent A petition for her relief was prepared, addressed to the supreme judges particularly and to all whom it may concern generally, asking the exercise of reasonable diligence in bringing about the termination of the suit. It was cited in support of this petition that the woman owns in her own right the farm willed to her during the natural life of her husband that he rented the farm to her son and that he had refused to pay the rent and had become so abusive that she no longer felt safe in remaining in the house The petitioners further averred that "the farm was going down stock was running where it should not and destroying her toil of years, and in the full belief that the son remained on the farm with the purpose to worry the life out of his mother and not because he believed that he had any legal claim to the property as renter they prayed with her a speedy settlement This unique petition was signed by thirty eight good and reputable citizens, and filed among the papers in the case of Smedman vs Smedman before the supreme court The effect was to advance the case upon the calendar and its speedy decision in favor of the plaintiff

It is seldom, indeed that the cold formals of court proceedings is varied by plain matter of fact statements of this character The panel routine shows justice stepping blindly in the pathway of precedent, weighing points of law carefully, as becomes her dignified and immovable character, and often after stately endeavor at extreme exactness an onlooker should lose sight of the simple factors evidence which, when plainly stated, a novice in equity cannot misunderstand or misjudge The case of Jarndyce vs Jarndyce might come to a great extent to be a synonym of the methods of courts in cases complicated by desperate resources that are marshaled for the purposes of delay if the common sense of the community were more frequently seized with a whim to simplify the issue by a plain respectful and dignified statement of the facts of evidence At least the result of this unique petition points to such a possibility and establishes a precedent in the interest of justice

MAJORITIES IN MORALITIES.

Ex President Cleveland is evidently in training for the presidency in 1892. The only reasonable explanation of this determination to renominate Cleveland in 1892 is the fact that the South is still controlled by the Carlisle Mills Watterson triumvirate, and the Northern democracy in order to hold the South solid will accept the inevitable in Cleveland The republican party will not grumble It is prepared for the re perpetuation of democratic stupidity obstinacy and ignorance—for the democratic party has been merely stupid from force of habit for fifty years, and there could be no stronger evidence that a so-called democratic statesman is an ingrained bourbon who never learns a new principle and never forgets an old prejudice than Cleveland's recent speech at the New York party banquet The cheapness of Cleveland's brains the infatuation and dense ignorance of his audience were conclusively proved when an ex president of the United States could utter and his admirers could applaud the following

When we look for the cause of the perpetuity of the democratic party and its survival through every crisis and emergency and in the face of all opposition we find in fact that its cornerstone is laid in devotion to the rights of the people and in sympathy with all things which tend to the advancement of their welfare and happiness Although forces may sometimes have crept into its organization and although party conduct may at times have been influenced by the shiftiness which is the habitual defect of its opponents, there has always remained a spirit imbedded in its nature and character that spirit of true Americanism and that love of popular rights, which has made it the stern rebuke in disaster and defeat and has constituted it a boon to its country in its time of triumph and supremacy

So far as this mettelic democratic rhetoric this sounding brass and tinkling symbol of partisan stupidity has any logic at all, what is it? It is this that the perpetuity of a party proves its right to exist that length of days with a party, like length of days with a man proves his purity his exemplary sequence, his moral worth, his general public and private worth Nobody but a hunkhead politician would ever offer this statement as a logical plea and excuse for the existence of the democratic party In the corrupted currents of this world every man of native intellect disciplined and fortified by worldly experience knows that the perpetuity of a party is no more proof of its worth than the length of days of the sedentary, inactive amiable and inert Methuselah proved him a better statesman than the energetic and adventurous Moses, the valiant David or the sumptuous but masterful Solomon The longevity of a moral, social, political abuse does not make of it a virtue any more than length of days necessarily implies virtue in a man Washington died at 67 and Tiberius Cæsar survived three score and ten The men who have by their intellectual or moral genius blessed the world by the bounty of their brains or their benevolence have not been nonagenarians The churches that have sure ved the impact of intelligent and unanswerable attack are not the churches of truth, of humanity and enlightened support they are the churches of heathenish superstition and vulgar faith

There is always eternal war between good and evil, between law and lawlessness between order and disorder, between justice and injustice, between intellect and imbecility, between intelligence and ignorance, and just so long as this is so there will be in every clime and every country a party of upright orderly and conservative instincts arrayed against the party of disbolism and depravity The perpetuity of the democratic party, that to Cleveland's petrified cerebrum is proof of its truth and virtue, is like the perpetuity of the small pox that exists in spite of vaccination

There are 50,000 men in New York city who would rob murder and burn to morrow morning without hesitation or remorse, were it not for the fact of the police, the courts the prisons, and the militia whose muskets are behind the police These evil, turbulent destructive social forces have always plagued society, and probably always will but their immortality their vicious vitality, does not commend them to our charity or respect So with the democratic party It has always plagued, persecuted paralyzed the moral forces of the nation but this fact no more procures it our respect or excuses or extenuates the disagreeable fact of its offensive career than the necessity of a Judas to complete the plan of salvation as the complement of Christ writes his infamous name on the roll of canonized saints

The perpetuity of the democratic party is the immortality of evil There are individual exceptions, but in a broad sense the democratic party has always been the demoniacal, filthy, destructive rot that has been hunted to death by every humane decent enlightened mind just as a burgomaster in Holland hunts a rodent that might bite a dike and overflow a nation In a broad sense as long as ignorance barbarity depravity, injustice, turbulence lawlessness and stupidity compel the conservative forces of civilization to provide a police, prisons courts and an army just so long under some name or form there will be a party of diabolism and social destructiveness striving to bruise the heel of law and order and justice

THE USUAL SEQUEL

The telegraph wires were burdened several months ago with details of a sensational elopement the parties thereto being Henry W Moore, a journalist of some note in St Louis, and Mrs Norton wife of a well known theatrical manager The wife of the man and the husband of the woman were each overwhelmed by the shame and grief that had befallen them but their efforts at reconciliation proved futile each of the runaways protesting an "undying love for the other that scorned the restraints of conventionalism and mocked at marital bonds The pair went their way as such people will and do and the disgusted public lost sight of them But not for long The sequel to "undying love of a character that forgets honor and scorns decency is soon told Moore, who certainly had no right to be astonished at the conduct of a woman who had deserted a husband to go with him was dismayed recently at the discovery that Mrs Norton's affections had again wandered His faith in her was shaken "it is said and the permanent separation of the pair is announced

Of course there can be but one ending to this sort of thing. The man deserted by the paramour for whom he had left a loyal and affectionate wife excites the full measure of contempt that he deserves when he poses before the world as having lost faith in the woman who was the companion of his flight It is out of place to bestow the pity that is reserved for the fool upon him, the execration that is due the social villain is his just and legitimate portion As to the woman her turn will come and because she is a woman her punishment will be more bitter than that of the man who was a party to her sinning

Sentimental young women may with perfect safety sign an anti-nuptial agreement not to demand alimony in case they get tired of marital bonds and sue for divorce James M Pimental, a wealthy man of San Francisco, endeavored to protect his property against the possible change in his wife's affections by an agreement of this nature to which the name that she bore before she became Mrs Pimental was duly affixed, but the document was promptly ruled out of court when the divorce, which he anticipated, was granted, and his ex wife was allowed the customary maintenance in such cases It is difficult to do justice to both parties in a matter of this kind The man who, when proposing marriage, seeks to provide against divorce by financial consideration deserves to find himself mistaken, and the woman who marries a man who seeks to protect himself from consequences that may be the result of intolerance, niggardliness or brutality on his part deserves little sympathy if she finds herself compelled to work for her board in a hotel kitchen when the anticipated climax of her matrimonial venture comes

The New York Tribune of Wednesday last had the caustic remarks about the Oregon & Transcontinental

The opposition was not confident that it had secured control, but it insisted that only a count of the ballots at the annual meeting could determine the result. The suggestion of a compromise was considered impossible and no attempts in this direction have been made The fight may be continued to the annual meeting on June 17 and probably the casting of votes by proxy will be contested on every point by the assailants A Wall street broker ventured the suggestion that both sides should show the certificates actually in their hands at the close of business The Southern Pacific was not entirely willing to accept this challenge, but it was sure that before the election the management would be glad to surrender unconditionally

If there is a man on earth who has reached the pinnacle of human happiness this man must be General David McKibbon, who some thirty five years ago was stationed at Vancouver and engaged in Indian fighting on Puget sound The brief summary of his happiness is as follows "He lives in Washington as on the retired list and has no politics" He has resigned San Francisco en route for the Northwest, where he will review scenes made famous by his early years of active service in the army

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Those who have read of the bloodhound only in sensational stories of the days of American slavery will learn the real traits of that little known animal with surprise in reading an illustrated article on the dog in the June Century The articles written by the chief expert on the subject in England the gentleman whose bloodhounds were used in the detection in some recent famous murder cases in London

While we rejoice in the absence of any meteorological disturbances, such as cause death and destruction east of Rocky range it must be confessed that storms are more than are occasionally known in Central Washington Not long since a sand storm raged there, causing relief to railroad travel equal to a snow blockade The way the sand blows when one of these Occidental blizzards gets in motion is appalling, and the wonder is that their way and the only thing to be done is to lay to under some sheltering point until the wind permits the sand to sift It is not so very pleasant for belated travelers

The New York Herald has been coming times of old with the way things rush at present. The time was when people sought the Pacific shore by way of Cape Horn Then they were glad to come via the Isthmus and the night three months on the sailing ship was when we got our mails here in Oregon once a month We then glad it was a great improvement when they came once a week and were happy to receive mail a month old that must by daily stages via California Now we ask for late mails a day and go to the Atlantic cities in a week's time If the train is an hour late and the mail that much behind, we scowl at fate and blame the corporations Verily the world moves and corporations hate, but it on a sharp trot all the time

Lord Lonsdale has failed in his effort to rival Baron Munchausen, simply because his story of Arctic travel are not tropical enough His tales of travel cannot even rival Gulliver because Lilliputians do not naturally live where they could be snared under He has excited the rabbles of the Royal Geographical Society, which is a good thing in the line of fresh air exercise, but he has failed in a long time Stanley's travels in Africa haven't been a laughing matter Lonsdale should have come back with stories based on travel far beyond human ken Fe found himself unable to even get the polar sea that the Royal Geographical society has been speculating about all this century If he had found a country and people there and given a plausible tone to it, he would have made a hit

It is a poor rule that don't work both ways For years and years the American dude has been sneaking low to English customs and donning British clothes and British airs, even imitating the unEnglish drawl peculiar to the Cockney race and not the English people We have had him caricatured and lampooned time out of mind to no purpose but now they actually say an enthusiasm has sprung into existence in old England over things American They had the appearance of the stars and stripes with cheers, and paint the town red when they float side by side It is time the two nations thought much of each other and we welcome the indication It is much better shown in this way than in the dudish drawl and cupping of English whiskers and clothes.

The remark is often made that physicians are allowed very extraordinary licenses in the way they juggle with patients. There are many schools of medicine and many practitioners pick up a smattering of medical lore without following any school Of course there are exceptions and the family physician in well regulated communities is one of the institutions of society, but quacks and charlatans will find customers so long as ignorance is bliss Montana has regulated medical practice by law and the quacks, who abound there, are trying to play a bluff game to avoid examination by a medical board created by the last legislature They are afraid of having to go to work like honest men or of having to migrate where no territorial or state law will trouble them

There is a great diversity in the way the South ern people treat their colored fellow citizens We read that Southern Presbyterians disown the blacks except as a separate organization, and there is also that proof that nowhere in the South is the great Caucasian the common privileges of citizenship The Ku Klux Klan, Regulators and whose exploits have made and astonished the world—who asserts the sun do move, for instance—had a hearing, and ten thousand dollars and lashes jostled each other to see him dispense hundred convicts It was a strange and rather fearsome occasion but they all survived and not even one of the two hundred was drowned Curiously and in the line of fun and negro humor will out, own prejudice—for a short time, at least—as was proved at the Richmond baptismal scene.

The question over in W T just now is "who shall be greatest" If they would follow the scriptural injunction and which they find there is when nothing for fame would go to the foot and mount themselves least, things would go smoothly enough but those who are in the swim are anxious to stay there and improve each shining hour How to succeed in this is not so easily solved The scramble is not exactly dignified, for the gentlemen who are anxious for preferment manage their work discreetly as yet but when the climax comes and the organization of the new state is perfected, there will be hot work. How much money will be spent to secure honors, or whether the new state shall start in virtuously and not allow filthy lucre to defile its fresh escutcheon, is a question the outside world watches with interest. If the young state can proudly claim its place among the stars without soiling its fair fame by mercenary acts, and will keep all "shoulders" at arm's length, so that mercenaries can claim seats that have not been bought with mercenary gold, then indeed, will the new star in the West deserve to win and wear the name most dear to all Americans—the name of Washington

Don't Ask Foolish Questions

Boston Traveler

The police and other public servants of Boston have many amusing stories to tell concerning the questions put to them by innocent intending persons while on discharge of their duty A good instance of this was observed yesterday, when a Washington street patrolman was accosted by a neatly-dressed and quite prepossessing young lady who said to the officer in a very inquisitive manner "Am I half way to the Common" The handsome guardian of the peace could hardly preserve his equanimity but had sufficient presence of mind to say That depends much upon the place you started from" Still, this is no uncommon incident

SENATOR COGGSWELL'S ROAD

Money Appropriated for Public Improvement's Is Not Money Thrown Away

LINKVILLE Or May 26

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Some time ago I noticed an article which has since been extensively copied by papers in the state in relation to the Coggswell appropriation bill for a wagon road from Linkville to the state line

The writer takes occasion to comment very caustically on Senator Coggswell's course in securing the passage of the bill, and says he misrepresents the course of the road after it left the line to his brother-in-law's saying that it only went into California about six miles and then returned

The appropriation was only I believe to build a road in Oregon and had nothing to do with the direction the road took after it left the state line

It is true that some years ago $40 000 was appropriated for the Ashland Linkville road and expended thereon in the immediate vicinity of Ashland, but all that money did not make one mile of road as the $5 000 contributed by Klamath county for the Klamath river road

The $4 000 could be spent on the Ashland Linkville road and it probably could be said that it has been done Twenty cents on the dollar is more than the road is worth to the county from Ashland to Linkville

The writer made many statements that I have not time to notice, but will say that I have never made any statement in regard to the route of the road other than that it would be the most practicable and direct route from Linkville to the state line

Coggswell's road is now completed and is a credit to the county and the state, and the money appropriated for it has not been thrown away

Respectfully, J. H. SCARBOROUGH

Items of Interest Gathered About the Busy City Yesterday.

Caliente on the Short Line—Low Water in the Columbia—Plenty of Horses for the June Meeting—Mr. Mahew Is Found.

SUNDAY IN THE PLAZA.—The old man who holds forth in the plaza with religious services every Sunday, preaches perhaps to a more promiscuous congregation than any other minister in the city. He generally takes up his station near the water stand, so that his voice can reach those who find seats there, and also the more numerous park-loungers who lie around on the grass in every conceivable attitude. Some of the latter lean their heads against the trees for a rush back, when they find a position, while by far the greater number lie on their backs, their legs in the air with no attempt at graceful disposition, their heads buried under their coats to exclude the light. It seems rather sacrilegious or sarcastic effect. It seems rather sacrilegious to an orthodox observer that the men should assume such unseemly and irreverent positions during divine services, but as the saying is, "All is fair in love and war." All return their head covers when the man who holds the speaker's hat, and all look as though he got pay for the courtesy, except the man who holds the speaker's hat, who looks as though he got pay for the courtesy, and all standing through the service with his head uncovered. The larger portion of the listeners pay little attention to what is said than to a small, scarcely perceptible gust of wind, and it is doubtful whether they derive as much good from it, as the reason of this is found in the universal slang expression "obeisance" which is there heard on every side by way of comment on the speaker's language.

TO-MORROW'S EXCURSION TO MULTNOMAH FALLS.—The arrangements for this excursion and celebration are perfected. Music has been prepared for the occasion, and the "Grand Army War Songs," and addresses have been arranged for. The flag will be raised at the top of the falls, 600 feet above the river. All who wish may join this party. The steamer S. G. Reed will convey the excursionists. All who go will be given them to-morrow, especially will be given them to-morrow, which is a national holiday. All classes are invited to join the excursion. Tourists and strangers would do well to avail themselves of it. Refreshments on board for those who wish. Fare, 25 cents, children, 50 cents. Remember the place, Ash-street wharf, and the hour, 7:15 A. M., sharp. If persons are not prompt, they will be left. The steamer will also land at Johnson's wharf, East Portland, Shaver's wharf, Albina, at John's and Vancouver. The steamer starts early that the return may be early. Excursion by the Ladies Social Union of the Albina M. E. church.

VERY UNDESIRABLE ACTIONS.—The statement that the employes of the Oregonian Railway Company are quitting work disabled three engines, and even attempted to ruin one of them, has caused a feeling of indignation, and has destroyed any sympathy the public may have had for the employes, if they ever deserved any. It is true that they have not been paid off for some time, but they have not been paid off for some time, but there is no doubt they will receive every cent due them. They were not obliged to work, and if they did not like the way they were paid, or not paid, they were at liberty to quit at any time. The fact is that they did not overwork themselves as they were not getting their money regularly, and none of them were suffering for any of the necessaries of life. If they were, they could have quit and gone to work where they could have received pay regularly. No one blames them for quitting work, that was their privilege, but to disable or damage the property of the company is an outrage which no one can justify, and for which the perpetrators will smart if they are caught.

EAST FROM COEUR D'ALENE.—Mr. George B. Markle has returned from a visit to the Coeur d'Alene mines. He reports everything looking prosperous there. A new vein of over six feet in thickness has been found on the property of the Portland Mining Company, but it caused no excitement, as they had enough there before. There has been some fears that the completion of the Washington & Idaho railroad across the Coeur d'Alene reservation might be delayed if Villard won the day at the coming Transcontinental election, but the resignation of Vice-President Holcomb, of the Union Pacific, that the road would be completed this fall has given great satisfaction, and development of mines will now go ahead. There is now being a large amount of ore shipped out of the district, and the railroad facilities available are used to their full capacity.

SUBSCRIBING LIBERALLY.—Messrs. Harry D. Chapman and D. J. Moore, who are collecting subscriptions for the Fourth of July celebration, report meeting with very good success, and feel much encouraged, although in some places they get all who they only expected $1 and in other places only get a trifle of what they and a right to expect. A gentleman who has just returned from Seattle says the citizens of that prosperous town claim that they intend to have a celebration on the Fourth which will eclipse anything of the kind heretofore given on this coast. They say that one corporation has headed the list with a $500 subscription, and that they will have such attractions as will draw to that city the people of the Northwest and, as one of them expressed it, "force the timothy to grow in the streets of Portland."

HE IS CULTIVATING HOPS NOW.—Colonel Frank J. Parker, of Walla Walla, and Mr. Robert Wilson, of Puyallup, are in the city, having just returned from a visit to the colonel's extensive ranch at Yaquina. They planted some hop vines there this spring, and went over to see how they were growing and how the soil and climate agreed with them, with a view of engaging in hop culture there on an extensive scale. They found every prospect favorable and the vines growing up so fast that they could not take time to train around the poles. If the hops ripen well, those gentlemen will go into hop-raising on a broad gauge scale and the colonel will spend his leisure hours in cultivating a clam ranch and bottling ozone to ship to Eastern Oregon. He is quite infatuated with the country around Yaquina.

SLIGHT COLLISION.—A slight collision occurred last evening between the incoming Short Line passenger train and a switch engine at the East Portland depot. The Short Line train was not expected to arrive until 7:30 o'clock. At 7:03 a switch engine pulled out of the depot and did not see the approaching engine which was whizzing around the curve, on account of a lot of cars which were on a side track completely obscuring the curve. When the engines came together they were running about five miles an hour. The pilots of both engines were knocked off but fortunately no one was killed. The fireman of the switch engine was slightly bruised about the head, but not seriously injured.

IT SHOULD BE STOPPED.—The overseer of the street cleaning department should take some steps to put a stop to the habit many shopkeepers have of throwing waste paper and other rubbish into the streets. There is an ordinance prohibiting this, and it should be enforced. First street may be swept clean one day and the next day look as if it had not been swept for a month, from the contents of waste paper baskets and sweepings blowing around it. If a few of the violators of the law were arrested, there would be a lot of mad people, but it would probably put an end to the nuisance. If this cannot be done a cart should be sent around to take away the waste paper and rubbish once a week or so.

THE ROOF LOOMING UP.—Work is progressing rapidly on the roof of the big hotel, and tall chimney stacks are becoming as plentiful there as tall cedars in a place which is unmentionable. Mr. Langford expects to complete his contract on the woodwork this week and the woodwork is getting well along, and the shafters are getting along fast. The roof is going to look very handsome, and when the towers are finished at the corners of the east court the general tout and scramble of the building from Sixth street will be very fine. A contractor on it, however, says it will not be finished by New Year's, as there cannot be enough men put to work on it to finish it by that time.

OFFICERS ON THE SICK LIST.—Police Officer Ryan, who accidentally shot himself in the leg about three weeks ago, is progressing favorably. He is already able to walk around some by the aid of a crutch, but cannot rest the weight of his body on the injured leg, and it will no doubt be several weeks yet before he will be ready to resume his beat on the police force. Officer Dean has been an inmate of Good Samaritan hospital a week or more, trying to shake off an attack of malarial fever. He, too, is convalescing. A few more days of good weather and strictly the right treatment will bring him back to his post of duty.

THE LAST OF THE SEVEN SUITS.—Among the cases which came up in the United States court a day or two since, was one of the Ellis G. Hughes vs. the Dundee Mortgage & Trust Investment Company. This is the last of the seven suits of that title which have been before the court. The other six have been decided by the United States supreme court, Mr. Hughes receiving $11,.00. The suits are still pending in the supreme court, and one is in the court here. There seems to be a prospect that the seven discrepancies between Mr. Hughes and the D. M. & T. Co., will be settled in time.

BECOMES A PAPER IN JUNEAU.—The golden era of journalism must be in its infancy in Alaska, judging from the clipping from the Juneau Free Press: "Our editor-in-chief has again turned himself into a miner, and the junior member is at the helm. No will attempt to steer clear of the rocks and snags, and with the assistance of an occasional pilot, we will endeavor to bring the craft safe into port. So bore come in and tell us what you are doing that we may let the outside barbarians know that we have about as much sand and push as the average American citizen who goes to live in Alaska."

LED TO THE ALTAR.—Miss Ella E. Kauffman, the accomplished daughter of Mr and Mrs A. Kaufman, of this city, was united in marriage yesterday forenoon at the residence of her parents, to Mr. Aaron P. Hotaling, jr. The ceremony was solemnized by Judge L. B. Stearns, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Hotaling left soon on a brief honeymoon tour to Victoria and Puget Sound. They will be absent from Portland about ten days. The best wishes of a host of friends accompany the newly wedded couple.

MESSENGER HOME RESIGNS.—Jeffries W. Hayes, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company's business in this city, has tendered his resignation, to take effect June 1, when he will enter the employ of the same company in the capacity of superintendent of the Pacific Coast division of the Telegraph Company.

"LISTEN TO THE MOCKING BIRD!"—The nightingales lately turned loose in Mr. Green's place adjoining the City park, can be heard singing in the mornings, if any one takes the trouble to go out early enough. The society which imported these birds has some money still on hand, and are now contemplating purchasing a dozen or so of pairs of mocking birds lately brought here from New Orleans and turning them loose in the park. It is safe to wager that they will be heard from if this is done, for one mocking bird can make more noise than a dozen other birds.

A STREET WHICH NEEDS REPAIRS.—Complaints loud and long are made about the plank street leading to the Macadamized road. The street committee will do well to look into this matter, and if anything can be done to better the condition of the street a favor will be conferred on a large number of people. Some action should be taken at the next meeting of the council, as the street is really very bad, and a disgrace to the city, and a nuisance to the lives of that very respectable portion of the community who drive out on the Macadam road evenings.

THE BUZZ AND BAND SAW.—The band saw has more teeth than the buzz saw, and there is more of it altogether, but it appears to be a much more docile and less deadly engine of destruction. One of these things broke in an up-town mill a day or two since, and sloshed a hole through the floor and then ran up a man's pantaloons leg and came out at his waistband and grinned as only a buzz-saw can, and never inflicted a scratch on the man. Just think of what would have become of the man if a buzz saw had been turned loose on him.

VISITED THE CITY.—Mr. E. V. W. Rossiter, treasurer of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, arrived here yesterday over the Southern Pacific in a private car accompanied by his family and his brother, Mr. W. K. Rossiter. They left New York about the middle of April, and have been exploring New Mexico, Arizona and California, and are becoming anxious to get home. They were shown around the city yesterday by Colonel C. F. Beebe, and left last night for Tacoma on their way East over the Northern.

A VERY LOW STAGE.—The Columbia at the Cascades is twelve feet six inches above low water mark, which is six feet lower than it was at this time last year. It is possible that the water may come up higher when the snow melts in British Columbia. The fishing is rather discouraging at the Cascades. Warren's master is putting up only a third of what it was doing at this time last year. The wheels running catch but few fish, quite a number, both of blueback and large salmon, are caught by men with gill nets. There are plenty of salmon in the river, and most of them seem bound to remain there.

PLENTY OF HORSES.—The Portland Speed Association met last evening and found forty four horses had been entered for the forthcoming June meeting. This is a larger number of horses than was expected. In a few days the programme will be announced. The association has made arrangements with Miss Myrtle Beck, a young equestrienne, to give an exhibition on the track on the free for-all day, June 8. She will ride a span of thoroughbred horses bareback around the track. She has covered a mile in 1:47½ in this way.

SMALL SALMON CATCH.—Fish Commissioners Thompson and Campbell said yesterday, judging from the present outlook, the catch of salmon for the season would be considerably less than that of last year. Owing to the deficit of rain last winter and snow, the water in the river is quite clear, and the gill nets on the lower Columbia are catching very few ash, while the traps are faring better, in fact catching nearly all the fish. At the Cascades the catch is improving, so Commissioner Campbell says.

A REGULAR AVIARY.—On his farm of some 1200 acres in the Waldo hills, Judge Waldo has about 150 Chinese pheasants. The singing quails and several pairs of the sky larks lately received from Germany were also sent up there, where they will be carefully looked after and protected. Judge Waldo does not stand in any dread of having his farm laid waste by the Mongolian pheasants, and allows no one to shoot birds of any kind on his farm. He will be surrounded by a regular aviary in a few years.

THEY ARE POURING IN.—Strawberries came in by the ton yesterday but dealers were unable to handle them on account of a scarcity of crates. A great many were shipped, however, some away up to Montana towns and more to the Sound. Farmers received 5 to 6½ cents from dealers and peddled out some for 4 cents. Some of the growers said it was reported that a cannery would start up to-day and they hoped that this would help the price.

SCHEMES POINTING AHEAD.—Considerable building is being done in Clackamas, showing that the gradual steady growth of Portland is being felt even in her remote suburbs. Several new houses are in course of erection and this lively little village is experiencing quite a stirring up of activities. Sellwood, Milwaukee, and other intervening villages are receiving a still greater impetus in their growth. The outlook for continued progress is encouraging.

WORTHY BOYS IN NEED OF EMPLOYMENT.—Two sons of Fred Norman, the baker on the Alaskan, and who was no doubt drowned at the time the vessel foundered, are in need of work. The boys are 16 and 14 years of age respectively, and very anxious to obtain employment to assist their widowed mother. Those having anything to do for these lads may leave word with George Usherwood, No 53 South Fourth street.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS.—The Rev Prior Adlehelm, of Mount Angel, is meeting with good success in soliciting contributions for the new college at Mount Angel. "Considering," as he says, "how the people are bled." He does his best to console all who favor him with a donation, and is so cheerful and jolly that he can make even a man from whom he takes money feel happy over parting with it.

PROSPECTIVE LAWYERS.—The examination of the students of the law school of the University of Oregon began last night and will be continued today. The class, which numbers twenty-four, has chosen the following members to represent it at the commencement exercises of the University of Oregon at Eugene on June 20: Captain W. F. Berkheimer, C. M. Miller, F. S. Osborn and J. L. Keenan.

Y. P. S. STATE CONVENTION.—A state convention of the Young People's societies of the various churches in Oregon will be held at Oregon City, June 13 and 14. All such societies are requested to send three delegates each and report the same to G. H. Benton, Oregon City, as soon as possible. The usual reduction in rates on the O. & C. railroad is expected.

COLORED RESIDENTS TO MEET.—The colored residents of Portland will hold a meeting in the A. M. E. Zion church, corner of Eleventh and Main streets, at 8 o'clock this evening, to consider business relative to the church. The church has been without a pastor for six or eight months, and it is the intention to call a minister to the pulpit.

DECORATION DAY.—Trains on the Portland & Vancouver railway will be run as follows: Leaving East Portland at 7:15, 9:15, 10:50, 12:00 A. M., and 1:15, 3:15, 5:15, 7:00, 9:00, 10:30 P. M., and leaving Vancouver at 7:30, 9:30, 11:00, 12:15 A. M., and 1:00, 3:30, 5:30, 7:45, 9:15 and 10:45 P. M. Pullman cars and Baldwin motors will be run on each train.

OVER $800 RAISED.—The committee collecting funds for the establishment of free baths in this city report having raised over $800. Architect Otto Kleinman, who has volunteered his services, will commence on the plans for the baths immediately. After work is fairly under way it will take but a short time to complete the baths.

K. OF P. LIVERIES OF OFFICERS.—At a meeting of the member of Ivanhoe lodge No. 12, K. of P., Monday night, the following officers were elected: Chancellor commander, Dr. O. C. Blakley; vice chancellor, George H. Rivers, prelate, D. H. Bovey, master at arms, George Brandt. The installation will take place one month hence.

A CHAMPAGNE WAGER.—Several baskets of champagne have been let as to the time when the first block of ice would be turned out at the cold storage warehouse and ice works being built at the Albina ferry. There will be champagne frappe if a block of ice is ever got out to do the frappeing with.

SALMON TO THE SOUND.—Tons of fresh salmon are being shipped to the Sound now, as salmon have not begun to run there yet. This will be a standoff for the tons of halibut, cod, rock cod etc., which are being shipped from the sound here. There is a good supply of fish in the market now.

MR. MAYHEW FOUND.—C. F. Maybew, the old man who disappeared a week ago, has been found. Monday a telegram was received from The Dalles announcing that he was there, and his sons immediately went there and brought him home.

ROOF FIRE.—An alarm from box 7 at 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon called the department to the northeast corner of Grant and East Park streets. The engines were not needed, however as the fire, which was a very small one in the roof, was put out with a few buckets of water. Damage nominal.

MUSICALE TO-NIGHT.—The grand musicale to be given at the Taylor-street M. E. church to-night for the benefit of the Portland hospital, promises to be a delightful treat for those who enjoy good music. Elsewhere will be found the entire programme consisting of twelve numbers.

DON'T WANT A BOOM.—Speaking of real estate transactions, yesterday a prominent banker said there would be plenty of speculation in outside lands. We do not want any boom here, it would be the worst thing we could have."

SALMON AT THE HATCHERY.—Superintendent Hubbard, of the Clackamas hatchery, says that there are quite a number of salmon in the river near the hatchery, but not so many as this time last year. The stripping of the salmon will not begin for at least three months.

YOUNG MEN'S INSTITUTE, No. 56.—There will be a special meeting of this institute this (Wednesday) evening to complete all arrangements for their electric light excursion, which is to take place on Wednesday next, June 5, leaving Ash-street dock at 8 o'clock.

DON'T YOU FORGET, but Kohn's suits to order are the best and finest in Portland, corner Second and Morrison street is the place.

TO DISCUSS THE POLLARD SYSTEM.—A special meeting of the school board will be held at the High school at 4 P. M. to-day to discuss the Pollard system which it is proposed to add to the curriculum of the primary and grammar grades of the schools.

ANOTHER MINING COMPANY INCORPORATED.—Articles incorporating the Kootenay No. 1 Mining Company were filed yesterday by C. H. Prescott, C. B. Bellinger, Isaac W. Smith, Jonathan Bourne, jr., and O. B. Wright. The capital stock is $600,000.

OUR CLEARING HOUSE.—The committee appointed at a recent meeting of the bankers to draw up a constitution and by-laws for a clearing house have performed their duty and will report at the next meeting of the bankers.

PROFESSOR E. L. BETTINGER is confined to his home, No 168 West Park street, by illness, and regrets not being able to meet his several pupils yesterday. He expects to be in condition to attend to his duties in a day or two.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce a decision in this court this morning, in the case of Blaebe vs. the O. R. & N. Co., on a motion to strike out and make more certain the complaint.

TEN YARDS BATISTE for $1, for to-day at E. Meyer. We will sell to-day only fifty pieces thirty-six inch Batiste, fine shades for 10 cents per yard or ten yards for $1, display in corner window at E. Meyer & Co.

EXTENDING THE TRACK.—The extention of the street car track on the Vanhill street line is being hushed ahead at a rapid rate. The track is already completed from Ninth street to Tenth.

OFF ON A CRUISE.—Captain U. Schree is off on the Manzanita on a tour of inspection of the light stations and buoyage on Puget sound. He will probably be absent a week.

J. M. BOWEN, who has been in the practice of law in this city for ten years, has opened an office at room No 11, Hegele's building, opposite Gilman house.

This is the case with the matchless Decker Brothers' piano handled only by The Kohler & Chase Music House, 71 Morrison street, of this city. This is the largest musical emporium of the Northwest and their storeroom in Portland is well worthy of a visit from all strangers.

THE FERTILE BIG BEND.

Waterville the Most Eligible Location for Building a Large City.

Important Information as to the Soil, the Climate, Etc—Half of Douglas County Still Open to Settlement.

WATERVILLE, W. T., May 25.

To ascertain the exact location of the Big Bend country, place a rule on the map of Washington territory so that one end will touch Priest's rapids on the Columbia river, and the other at the junction of Columbia and Spokane rivers. The country directly west of your rule, and between it and the Columbia river, embraces the Big Bend proper. It will be observed that Douglas county comprehends the most of this section. The topography of this immense area is a gently rolling, bunch grass prairie, mostly devoid of timber, except along the western border.

As to climate, no extreme is ever experienced. Stock range on the plains the year round; midday in summer is warm, but the nights are invariably cool; rainfall is always abundant, so that irrigation is never resorted to. Failure of crops is not known, as shown by the experience of a few families who settled in this country twelve years ago.

THE SOIL

Is equally as good, if not better than found in the well-known Palouse and Walla Walla countries, with the advantage of being easier worked. It produces an average of 30 bushels of wheat; 50 bushels of oats; 45 bushels of barley and 200 to 300 bushels of potatoes to the acre.

DOUGLAS COUNTY

Is bordered on the north and west by mountains covered with timber, with small valleys between, which are occupied by the following rivers: Wenatchee, Entiat, Chelan, Methow and Okanogan. On the slopes of the mountains, bordering these rivers, are found unlimited leads of gold, silver, copper, iron, lead, coal, marble and limestone. New discoveries are being made daily. The most advanced section now in development of mines is on the spur of the Okanogan river, called the Okanogan or Salmon River Mining District.

Half of Douglas county is still open to settlement. Most all the country lies beyond the Northern Pacific railroad grants. The most thickly settled parts are in the northwest section. Deeded land is worth from $5 to $25 an acre. Claims can be bought out from $500 to $1000.

WATERVILLE,

The county seat, is the only eligible location for a large city in the Big Bend, which is shown by the following reasons:

First—It is an elegant townsite for a city of 100,000 people, surrounded by magnificent mountain scenery.

Second—Abundance of water is found at a depth of from twenty to thirty feet from the surface, and an unlimited supply of pure spring water can be brought from Badger mountain, three miles distant.

Third—The largest body of timber in the country lies within three miles of us, on Badger mountain. Three sawmills, working day and night, supply our needs for lumber.

Fourth—The topography of the country oblige all future railroads seeking an outlet to the Sound to come directly to this point. Both the Northern Pacific and Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern have located lines and both roads promise to reach here this fall.

Fifth—We are situated on a direct line, 120 miles west of Spokane Falls, and 110 miles east of Seattle, and seventy-five miles south of Ellensburgh. Three stages per week from Ellensburgh, and two from Davenport, accommodate the travel. Stage fare from either point is $7 per trip.

Waterville is the important city of trade and exchange between the mining and timber country on the south, west and north and the agricultural lands to the east. We say without fear of contradiction, that we have the greatest area of natural resources, compelled to be tributary to us, shown by any city in Washington territory. The people of this section are mostly Americans, with sentiments which have placed in our midst schools, churches and benevolent societies.

ONE YEAR AGO

But four houses were located on the Waterville townsite. To-day there are 200, and no abatement of the demand for more. Stores here are all doing good business, and those wishing to enter the following trades at specialties, would meet with a warm welcome: Furniture, fancy goods, dry goods, wall paper, paints and oils, etc., short order restaurant, pugilistic gymnasium, gents' furnishing goods, clothing, jeweler, tailor, wheelwright, foundry, books and stationery, brewer, cheese and butter factory, dairy, brick pressing machine, sash and door factory, cracker, feed mill, laundry, fancy stock and poultry breeder, photographer, veterinary surgeon and well borer.

A bank is badly needed. Money is loaned at from 2 to 2½ per cent. a month. Judge Nast, from Spokane Falls has contracted for a $15,000 flouring mill.

Two live newspapers are located here, the Immigrant and Big Bend Eashere.

Splendid brick clay is to be found around our townsite.

Town lots are still very cheap, as we have had no "boom." Lots have been bought for two time warehouses for lime, which is burnt a few miles from town.

IMPROVEMENTS NOW UNDER WAY.

Joseph Schneed and John Carothers, both of Spokane Falls, are to commence work within thirty days on their sash and door and furniture factory. The plant is to cost not less than $6000. On completion of the plan A. T. Greene gives them the entire block on which the factory is to be located for $1. The same gentleman, A. T. Greene, has lately made the same terms for a block with Judge L. B. Nash, of Spokane Falls, and J. H. Stephens, of this city, who have contracted to erect a $15,000 flouring mill by September 1, 1889.

The Willis hotel, the third in town, has just been completed, and has already all the patronage it can accommodate. It has seventy-five rooms. Central avenue and 100 feet in depth, and is altogether the best hotel between the Cascades and Spokane Falls.

Van Alstine has also just finished a splendid livery barn, a model in all respects. Few cities can show a better one.

J. C. McFarlin has just started moulding brick, and building a kiln of 250,000 brick at his yard.

The Waterville Lime Company will empty another kiln of lime in a few days. It is pronounced by experts to be the best produced on this coast.

A neat painted, two railed fence is being put around our park square and trees set out within the inclosure.

Since the stages now come in twice a week from Ellensburg, and twice from Davenport, travel has materially increased, and we look for to have trebled our population by fall. Property, however, is still very cheap. Lots on business streets are held at $250 to $500 per lot, and resident from $20 to $100. There are eleven buildings in course of erection.

We are organizing a brass band and have sent for $200 worth of instruments.

We have just organized a board of trade and we will commence advertising our merits.

We have had seven inches of rain within eight days, which don't hardly agree with the ideas of many parties who persistently cry that the Big Bend is too dry for crops. To show that farming pays here I will cite the statement of that well-known townsman of mine, Judge Scott, who says he made $1775 from the sale of grain and grain hay from the fifty-three acres broke on his land and mostly a sod crop at that.

We wish you would correct the misrepresentation of towns 100 miles off and over east of us who are trying to rob us of our reputation for big crops, by claiming to be in the Big Bend. The Big Bend is in that part of our territory west of an air line drawn between Priest's Rapids and the junction of the Columbia and Spokane rivers.

HE DIDN'T TAX "OUR GEORGE."

How "Bob" Holman Stood Off the Revenue Tax Collector—"Ye Know."

The Washington Fire Engine Company, which Robert Holman visited during his recent trip East, and of which he used to be a member when he was a foot-racer, was organized in Washington's time and the organization has been kept up ever since. The lamps on the old engine had a portrait of Washington cut on the glass in elegant style. On starting to return to this coast the company presented Mr. Holman with one of these lamps, which he brought home as a trophy of his visit and of which he is very proud.

He came back over the Canadian Pacific, and carried his lamp with him. A vigilant customhouse officer pounced upon it, thinking to collect some duty on it. "Bob" told him that he had better leave that lamp alone, and remarked:

"You fellers, trying to, get into a heap of trouble with the person on that lamp about taxes. They wanted to tax him and he would not have it, and your folks had to give it up for a bad job, and were out a pile of money and land on the transaction. You had better not undertake to collect any tax off him now, or you will be in trouble again."

The astonished revenue officer did not understand, but when Bob showed him the face on the lamp and explained the situation to him he concluded that he would let Washington pass free of duty.

SPARRING EXHIBITION LAST NIGHT.

The Peter Jackson combination gave a sparring exhibition to a good house at the Standard theater last night.

At the conclusion of the evening's performance Sam Fitzpatrick, the Australian "comet," and Jim Bates, the retired champion middleweight of the Northwest, sparred four lively rounds to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

Next came Peter Jackson, the champion colored heavy-weight, and Tom Lees, a boxer of merit, who entertained the audience in a six-round affair.

The combination leaves for Spokane Falls today, where they have dates.

PERSON L.

Mrs. Margaret J. Bilyeu, of Eugene, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. B. Hauson, of East Portland.

Mr. James Wheeler, passenger engineer on the the Southern Pacific railroad, between Roseburg and Grant's Pass, is in the city for a few days.

Judge Julius C. Moreland has returned from a visit to his son Harvey at Union. He says the recent rains have made the growing crops show up in fine shape, and altogether the country looks prosperous.

Indian Murderer Arrested—The Langford-Jones Verdict—Conjugal Woes—Damage Suits—Indictments—Judicial Notes.

On Sunday evening last an Indian killed an Indian woman on the Umatilla reservation near the agency in a drunken quarrel. He first shot the woman and then stabbed her several times, causing instant death. He was let off with a fine of $5, and will not be so charitable in future.

A DELIGHTFUL SURPRISE.

A Lady Who Desires to Know Something About James McGarry.

Monday Manager C. J. Smith, of the O. R. & N. Co., received a dispatch from a person signing herself Lillian McGarry, dated Johnstown, Pa., asking that he telegraph her any information obtainable regarding James McGarry's last moments. She also offered to pay a suitable reward for the recovery of the body, should it wash ashore.

A dispatch was at once sent in response to the effect that McGarry is now safe and alive in the marine hospital at Marshfield, Or. Copies of the Portland papers were also sent her, containing a full account of the accident and of McGarry's rescue. It is evident that the lady is of the belief that he perished.

From the dispatch it is impossible to say whether the party signing the dispatch is a sister, wife, mother, cousin or aunt, but one thing is certain, and that is they will be delighted when the news of McGarry's safety reaches them.

Dyspepsia, headache, biliousness and all stomach disorders are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A GENTLE PERSUADER.

Astoria Wants a Railroad and Citizens Are Asked to Subscribe.

The Editor of the, "Arizona Kicker" Thrown Completely in the Shade by the Editor of the "Astoria Pioneer."

Enterprising citizens of Astoria, in order to get a railroad, are endeavoring raise a subscription. Certain of their fellow-citizens refuse, however, to lend aid to the undertaking, and the Pioneer puts their case in this interesting style, which other outdoes that of the Arizona Kicker, to-wit:

We want to say that $30,000 raised this week. We want to see large property owners, who will be mostly benefited, guarantee the balance, if necessary. We want to see property owners who have not contributed and who will be benefited, put their names down for stock. Messrs Rogers have considerable property and don't pay any more taxes than he can help. Mose ought to give $5000. He never gave a cent in his life for any project of the kind and it is about time he was doing something to repay back the kindness of the people toward him in leasing his property at a high rental value. He owns 280 acres of land, worth about $5000, that is assessed at $725. He also owns twenty-seven lots, including his residence, that he would not sell for $30,000. They are assessed for $7250. Total value of property, including improvements, $35,000, assessed at only $11,008, from which is deducted $2569 indebtedness. Mr. Rogers has refused to take any stock in the railroad.

Mike Nolan is worth $60,000. He has several lots rented for gin mills and leased for houses of prostitution. He can afford to give $5000, as he don't begin to pay his share of taxes and has never contributed a cent to the railroad. By the way, the county assessor is to be censured for the fact that Mike has a farm over on the Lewis and Clarke that he has been offered $11,000 for, and for which he is now asking $15,000. It is assessed at less than $4000. He ought to be made to give something to the railroad, he can at least afford to have that farm assessed at what he has been offered for it, to-wit, $11,000. Mike ought to give at least $3000 to the railroad.

C. L. Parker has made a fortune in Astoria, and it hasn't cost him much to live during the past twenty years, as chop feed has been cheap. He can afford to give $5000 to the railroad, and he'll feel better for it. J. Wm. Welch hasn't contributed anything yet, but probably will, as he is generally public spirited in matters of this kind. About $1000 would be a fair figure from him.

H. B. Parker has already subscribed $1000, but as he has a large amount of property, some of which is bringing in a big revenue, we think Mr. Parker ought to double his subscription.

Colonel Tapp is a comparatively poor man. He has given $10,000 in cash, and a water frontage for terminal facilities that Engineer Thellsen says is worth $100,000 for that purpose. Colonel Taylor, so it is reported, will do more; he will give $5000 more.

Hiram Brown can afford to give at least $5000, and probably will, as he has signified his intention of doing his share.

James M. Shively can afford to give $5000. He is very old and has only a short time to live, and the $5000 he ought to give can't be taken with him, and the gratitude of the company could erect a monument to his memory. Mr. Shively is abundantly able to give that sum and ought to do it. It won't hurt him, but will help the city he has been instrumental in building up. He owns 960 town lots that he would not sell for $50,000. He is assessed at $14,405. Mr. Shively says he can't afford to buy one share of stock. If the railroad is built his property would be worth at least $100,000. Will Mr. Shively please inform us just what he proposes to do with all that property in the next world?

There are a few others that have not given, that we will attend to to-morrow as soon as we examine their assessments for taxes. We have, then, the following:

M. Nolan	$ 5,000
M. Rogers	5,000
C. L. Parker	5,000
J. W. Welch	1,000
H. B. Parker	1,000
Colonel Taylor	5,000
Hiram Brown	5,000
J. M. Shively	5,000
Total	$32,000

That is just the amount needed. Now then, if these gentlemen will subscribe that amount today, the question of a railroad to the Willamette will be definitely settled. But will they do it? All but M. Nolan, M. Rogers and C. L. Parker promised to do it when a few gentlemen will probably hang on to everything they have got the death gets in his work, and then their estates will be divided up among the lawyers, while their toes are turned toward the daisies.

We will turn this loose gentlemen and several others to contribute something every day. We will put in a standing notice to the world of a few men who are worth thousands of dollars and who will be handsomely remembered by the building of a railroad, but who are too stingy to give a cent. We will just keep the world posted as to who they are and it won't cost them a cent. We will go further, we will give a list of their property, what it is worth and what it is assessed at, and will keep it standing in a conspicuous place in this paper until Gabriel blows his horn. Business is business and this business is played out. The time for coaxing is past, the time for business is at hand, and that railroad has got to be built. There is no doubt about it, it is a settled fact.

Reservations on any steamship line in the Atlantic service to Europe can be secured at Northern Pacific ticket office, No. 121 First street, corner Washington.

Gave Them a Thorough Trial,

Hon L. A Moore, Member of Assembly, Richmond county N Y., writes.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, ALBANY, N Y., April 11, 1887

I have two afflictions which sometimes make life a burden. One is dyspepsia, the other rheumatism. I hear that BRANDRETH'S PILLS taken one or two each night on an empty stomach would cure rheumatic pains. I gave them a thorough trial for three weeks, taking one or two every night. To my delight, not only was I cured of rheumatism but dyspepsia completely and helloumness. They did not interfere with my diet or sleeplessness, and I really think them an incomparable blood purifier and cathartic.

WE HAVE NO EQUAL.

Nothing is so necessary to the health of the child as keeping its blood pure. Nature should be assisted in this by using a harmless vegetable remedy like Swift's Specific.

My little niece had white swelling, to such a extent that she was confined to the bed for a long time More than twenty pieces of bone came out of her leg and the doctors said amputation was the only remedy to save her life I refused the operation and put her on S. S. S. and she is now up and as well as any child is as good health as any child.

Columbus Ga Feb. 11 '89 ANNIE GRESHAM

My little son five years old was afflicted with a disease for which the doctors had no name. It made cause off his fingers and the fingers came off his hands up to the middle joint. For three years he has suffered unutterably and has taken quantities of medicine. He is now getting well under the use of Swift's Specific. JOSEPH DEBIG.

Peru, Ind. Jan. 12 1889

Last year my little boy John had a breaking out with sores all over his body which was painful and the blood was all out of order. He lingered for several months with the sores, grew worse I was induced to give him Swift's Specific. He began to improve at once, and after taking three bottles the eruption was gone, and the child was entirely healed.

Atlanta Ga., Sept. 20 1888 J F COCK

Rev L B Payne in charge of the Orphans Home at Macon Ga. says he has been using S. S. S. with the children in the institution for nine or ten years with the best results Many cases of hereditary taint have been entirely cured and the little ones made round and hearty

My little boy broke out with sores and ulcers, the result of the saliva from a calf coming in contact with a cut finger The ulcers were deep and painful and showed no inclination to heal I gave him Swift's Specific and he is now well

WORK ON THE CABLE RAILWAY.

Operations Are Now Being Pushed Forward With Great Vigor—How the Road Is Built.

A reporter yesterday visited Portland Heights, in company with Mr G W Lynch, manager of the Cable Railway Company, and was surprised to see the progress that has been made on the road and the thorough and systematic manner in which the work is being carried on, the number of men employed, and the energy with which the work is being pushed ahead.

Passing up Montgomery street a view is had of the excavation being made for the power-house near the foot of the trestle, at a point which will be in the center of the line when it is completed. A large number of men are blasting out the rock, and the building will have a good solid foundation when the excavation is completed.

Operations on the construction of the cable road have been commenced at the corner of Spring and Fifteenth streets, where a turntable will be put in. At this point a well equipped blacksmith shop has been provided, with drill press and all the tools necessary for carrying on such a work. Just beyond is a huge pile of crushed rock, and piles of cement and sand for mixing with it to form concrete, a great deal of which is used in constructing a cable road. Near by is a huge pile of mortar, in which over 600 barrels of lime have been mixed and along down Spring street are huge piles of rails, slit iron from yokes etc. provided for the construction of the road.

About three blocks of one track of the road are completed from Spring street down toward the trestle and some seventy five men are employed on the work, which has now been thoroughly organized and systematized and is going ahead smoothly.

As very few know anything about the construction of a cable road some description of how one is built may be interesting.

In the first place a trench is dug. Then wrought iron frames or yokes as they are called are placed along in this trench a few feet apart. On the tops of these frames the rails are fastened and along the middle the slot irons between which the grip passes down to grasp the cable which runs on pulleys supported by the frames, over which the cable runs. After the rails and slot irons are fastened to these frames the whole arrangement is suspended in the trench by planks placed across under the rails holding them just where they are to be fixed. Then a layer of concrete is filled in around the bottoms of the yokes and when it hardens the track is held firmly in place. Then brick is built up along each side up to the rails or thereabout leaving a space in the center called a spout through which the cable runs. The surface of the road is then cemented and covered with bituminous rock to give all a good finish.

It is worth any one's while to visit the work to see how systematically everything goes on under the watchful eye of Mr Sims, the superintendent. Here are a lot of men digging the trench after them come the bricklayers, putting in the ropes, rails and slot rail, next come the concrete men, and then the brick layers. In one place is a gang of men mixing cement, another mixing mortar, and another straightening the rails, for everything about a cable road must be true to a line.

Of course everything will be different on the trestle. There will be no iron yokes and the slot iron is five inches wide and half an inch thick, and the wheels for the cable will be hung underneath.

From Spring street to the foot of Fifth street is two and a half miles. This part of the road will be completed first. The road will then be extended out to Fairmount, and when cars are running over this route every three minutes as is intended, people will begin to appreciate the advantages of a cable road.

TO HONOR THE MEMORY OF THE DEAD

Meeting of the G A R Committee to Complete Arrangements for Decoration Day.

The committee making preparations for Memorial day exercises, held a meeting in G A R hall last night to further complete arrangements for the day.

There will be a short parade in the afternoon, in which the First regiment O N G and the various G A R posts of the city will participate. The procession will form on First street, right resting on Salmon and the line of march will be up Salmon to Sixth, down Sixth to Morrison and down Morrison to the bridge. The First regiment will go no further, but the different G A R posts of this city and their friends will proceed to Lone Fir Cemetery, where memorial exercises will be held. The Willamette Bridge Company have kindly consented to provide the necessary street cars for the occasion.

The procession will move at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and by 2:30 the members of the G A R. expect to be back to the bridge to board the cars for the cemetery. The public who expect to be present at the exercises in the cemetery will therefore have to go either before or after the children and their friends return to the bridge. The cars at that hour will be given exclusively to members of the G A R. and the line to the cemetery must be kept clear.

The public are requested to close their places of business and display the stars and stripes at half mast. All old soldiers of the late war regardless of their affiliation for the G A R are requested to join in the procession and participate in all the exercises of the day.

The full programme of the day will be published in to-morrow's OREGONIAN.

A GENUINE DOODLE SACK

A Novel Street Orchestra Which Draws Big Crowds.

Everything comes to the man who waits and many of our citizens who have been for all their lives to see a doodle sack have at last been gratified. A band of Savoyards arrived in the city yesterday three of them armed with the home-made flageolets while the fourth carried a genuine doodle sack.

This is a sort of monstrosity of a bagpipe with chanters as long as a man's leg and a drone big enough for a duchess' hercules and the sight of it would drive a Highlander wild. The man who played this monstrous instrument was a small Italy helmet, on the top of which was a stand of small bells, and on his back he had a bass drum on top of which was a pair of cymbals and at the rear of which was a compound comminated triangle.

A drum stick was fastened in a leather band around his wrist and a strap attached to his right heel connected with the triangle and the cymbals. The latter were kept apart by a spiral spring and the rod which hammered the music out of the triangle was fastened so that when the player kicked with his foot he beat the triangle and clashed the cymbals, and by a twist of his arm, he would beat the drum, by nodding his head he jingled the bells in his helmet. What with blowing into his doodle-sack like a bellows, nodding his head wriggling his arm kicking his foot and at the same time, fingering the keys and holes in the big drone pipe, the fellow had his hands full, and the sweat poured off him in torrents. The strange outfit attracted much attention and many dimes fell into the hat of the fellow who passed it around. The whole was very amusing, and the sight of the doodle-sack alone was worth the full price of admission, but it does not seem just the thing in this country to see four stout, able-bodied men going around with such a circus, and one of them passing the hat all the same as an organ grinder a monkey. Hereafter, it is to be hoped, people will make a world and these fellows come from a rather outlandish part of it.

ICE CREAM AND STRAWBERRY SOCIABLE

Given by the Ladies of the Hall-Street M E Church Last Night.

The ice cream and strawberry lawn sociable given by the ladies of the Hall-street M E. church last night was a pronounced success and highly enjoyable. The sociable was given on the Cook block bounded by Fourth, Fifth College and Hall streets.

Soon after dusk the spacious grounds were illuminated by several hundred Japanese lanterns suspended from many limbs and were stretched between the orchard trees. It did not take long for a jolly good crowd to assemble. Numerous benches and rustic seats were distributed over the grounds where those who felt so inclined could sit down and enjoy themselves either in social conversation or in watching the younger folks romp over the green sward. Little children were frolicking about engaged in play and added not a little to the pleasantness of the occasion. The glimmer from the Japanese lanterns threw a soft light over the happy assemblage, giving them a picturesque and oriental aspect.

The ice cream booth was presided over by Mrs. P B Young, Mrs J N James, Mrs Sarah Hamm and Mrs. Maria Baker the committee having all arrangements in charge. They were kept busy the greater part of the time dishing out delicious frozen cream. The cream was excellent and the strawberries and cake came up to the same high standard as the quantity disposed of amply testifies.

The evening was further enlivened by music furnished by members of the church choir and others. The first number, Come Where the Lilies Bloom,' was sung by Miss Rosie Groves soprano Miss Annie Cline, alto Mr Williams bass and Mr Edwin Keathley tenor. Miss Henderson presided at the organ. Mrs. G A Buckner sang 'Sunny Days Will Come Again' Music in the air, and other selections and the church choir rendered several church songs and patriotic airs in an excellent manner.

Rev C L. Cline, the pastor was present, and with a few eloquent words for each, he saw that all enjoyed themselves.

LABOR DAY IN SEPTEMBER.

Too Many Holidays and Elections Happen Close to the First Saturday in June.

The labor unions are deliberating whether they will parade on Labor day which comes next saturday. The day will be appropriately observed and J M Bower of the law firm of McDougall & Bower, has been engaged to deliver the address. The laboring men are not satisfied to have Labor day fall on the first Saturday in June. A well known member of the Federated Trades explained the reason to a reporter yesterday.

It is this way said he. Labor day now falls on the first Saturday in June which is a little too close to Memorial day and the Fourth of July. Besides every two years a general election occurs on the first Monday in June or within a week of Labor day, and every year we have a city election on the third Monday in June or within three weeks of Labor day. The close proximity of elections to the laboring man's holiday is not desirable as it presents the opportunity of mixing political and labor questions, to the detriment of the labor organizations. Last year Labor day came on June 2 and the general election, on which the attention of the whole country was riveted, took place on June 4. On the occasion of the celebration some of the speakers spoke more about politics than anything else. It is quite probable that the next legislature will be requested to change Labor day from June to September.

NEW TELEGRAPH LINE TO ASTORIA

The Western Union to Rebuild Its Present Line and Will Keep It in Oregon.

F H Lamb assistant superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company at San Francisco is in the city on official business and will visit Puget sound before returning. Talking with a reporter yesterday, Mr Lamb said that the company is making preparations to rebuild its line to Astoria and will begin work as soon as the water recedes.

The new line will be built entirely on the Oregon shore and will be completed this season. From Portland it will be built along the Northern Pacific railroad to Hunter's and then follow the country roads and trails until it intersects the present line at Knappa. From there to Astoria it will continue along the present route, except where a change would be for the better. The object is to get the line away from overflowed lands and out of the way of banks likely to be washed out by the river, so as to avoid interruption to communication. The present line, which was built in 1876 or 1877 runs from Portland to Vancouver, thence along the old road to Kalama thence to Oak Point when it crosses the Columbia river by cable to the Oregon shore.

CECILIAN OPERATIC COMPANY

A Musical Treat of a High Order To Be Given at New Park on Friday and Saturday Night.

The members comprising this brilliant musical organization are trained musicians and have been received with the most flattering mention wherever they have appeared. The opera of Pretty Galatea which they give entire on Friday night is said to be one of the most tuneful of all light operas. In referring to their performance an exchange says:

Miss Millbrier has lost none of the delightful quality of her voice and has gained in brilliancy of execution and maturity of style. Her acting in the garden scene from 'Faust' is really excellent, far superior to the usual performances indicating great training in the art histrionic. The "Jewel song" was sung with capital effect. Her voice wears well in the trying work. It is a beautiful voice in a high state of cultivation and it never, for a moment, wavered. Mr Crandall made an excellent Faust and created great enthusiasm. Tenors are rare, but here is one who has a good octave and a half of clear clean tones of pure limpid sweetness with a firm edge that is as pleasing as its quality is rare; moreover he sings in good taste. And a baritone like Mr Mills is rare too. He made a capital Mephistopheles, better in fact than has been heard here for some time. His performance was a grand success and the Cecilians are a strong organization.

A GRAND RECEPTION

To Be Tendered the Grant's Pass Excursionists on Their Arrival Friday Evening.

The following letter, from a prominent citizen will show pretty clearly what arrangements have been made for the accommodation of Grant's Pass excursionists:

GRANT'S PASS, Or May 22 1889

J J Flynn & Co Portland—Gents: In reply to yours I do not think would say that on last Tuesday night a mass meeting of citizens was held and great interest was manifested in the forthcoming excursion. Committees were appointed to receive the excursionists provide sleeping accommodations etc also to provide carriages. Everything is being done to make it an enjoyable and pleasant occasion for the excursionist and we are looking forward to a rousing time with a great deal of fun. The town will be decorated. We will have carriages on Saturday to drive the entire party around. The ladies will provide a lunch on and a rawberry festival Saturday evening. It is also decided to have a public reception and dancing. Our band, a formed brass band will meet you at the depot and lead in escorting the general public to yourself and friends. Yours very truly, ARTHUR CONKLIN

The Grant's Pass special will start on Friday morning without fail, rain or shine or weather. Number of people or any other consideration.

There is no city in the United States except from the dangers of malaria Ayer's Ague Cure neutralizes all miasmatic poisons.

EAST PORTLAND GLEANINGS.

New Railway Enterprise—Saloon Robbed—Fire Cisterns—The Mayoralty—Personal.

Favorable opinions were freely expressed yesterday concerning the new railway enterprise by prominent citizens, and it seems the general impression that it would be a good thing for the East Side. The proposed line is very comprehensive and passes over streets that in some cases are to be improved. The fact that the company proposes to use animals or electricity for propelling power relieves the company from a certain opposition. No steam motor would be permitted on the proposed line.

KERMISS' KERMESS!

A grand social outdoor entertainment, combining pleasure with instruction will take place on the grounds of St Francis church, East Portland, corner of Eleventh street, between E and I. Among the various amusements will be a magnificent panorama representing scenes of the life of our Lord. All figures are life size. A merry go around will furnish fun for young and old. Greased pole climbing will be among the attractions. Sack races, in every shape and form running races, etc., etc., will be order. Ice cream, strawberries and cake will be given away for a trifle. The amusement which we call kirmess will be enlivened by the melodious strains of music. The opening will take place next Thursday, and immediately after the decoration of graves has taken place. The entertainment will last for a few evenings. The place is to be lit up with lanterns. Come and enjoy yourself. The net proceeds of the kirmess will form a fund for street improvements on Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

PECULIAR SITUATION

The situation in regard to the houses that are built on the streets is very peculiar. Mr Thompson related Monday in speaking of the matter, that he went on one of the streets some time ago and found a German building a house. He informed the man that he had no right to put his house in the street and would have to move it sooner or later. The man was very indignant and continued building until he has a house in the street worth about $800. Most of the owners have stated that they would move their houses but have taken no action in that direction. The point is whose duty is it, the city's or the company's to bring action to compel these people to vacate.

THE FIRE CISTERNS

Excavations for the two new fire cisterns at Twelfth and G and Fourteenth and I have been finished and the brick work on the one at Twelfth and G has been commenced. Mr Skinner, the contractor intends to push his contract to an early completion. A few more of the same kind of cisterns around the city would be an advantage.

FOR MAYOR

A petition is being circulated about the city asking Dr Joseph H to become a candidate for mayor. It is understood he would accept the nomination from the republicans if it comes to him unanimously.

SALOON ROBBED

Monday night the saloon of Fritz Kranz was entered and the till robbed of all the change it contained about $7. Entrance was made through the back door. The till was broken into pieces.

NEW RESIDENCE

The ground for Dr Dan Raffety's house in Raffety's addition, south of Stephens's slough, was laid off yesterday. It is said he will put up a residence costing $4,000.

PERSONAL.

Mrs H C Hill has gone to Pendleton on a short visit to friends.

Mr W D Pape city treasurer returned from Seattle yesterday where he spent a few days. He is enthusiastic over the electric railways.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, most palatable and nutritive food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof H. A. Mott, U S Government Chemist, after examining officially he principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government.

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.
